HITLER SIGNS UP HUNGARY

Nazis Blast Birmingham In Coventry-Type Raid

HUNGARY JOINS AXIS

VIENNA, Nov. 20 (AP) — Hungary signed a military, political and economic compact with her totalitarian friends today, making the German-Italian-Japanese alliance into a four-nation Axis.

The representatives of the four nations affixed their signatures to a document binding Hungary to join the war against any country which in the future may enter the European or Japanese-Chinese conflicts.

Then Adolf Hitler received Count Pal Teleky, premier of Hungary, and his Foreign Minister Count Istvan Csaky, for a conference at the Hotel Imperial attended by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

After a two-hour talk with the Fuehrer, the Hungarians left for home.

By this stroke of diplomacy, Hitler opened a Nazi military avenue 250 miles further into the Balkans, toward Greece, Turkey, Bagdad and Suez.

Ribbentrop indicated that further extensions are to come by declaring "more powers will follow" Hungary.

He described the pact as a "challenge to all war inciters and any power which is in favor of extension of the war."

BAYONETS HURL BACK ITALIANS

ATHENS, Nov. 20 (AP) — Mass bayonet charges and fierce hand-to-hand fighting have carried counter-attacking Greek troops deeper into Albania in the battle for important Koriza, the Greek high command declared today.

Italian resistance apparently was stiffened by reinforcements and the machine-gunning and diving-bombing of Greek front line troops. The Greek communiqué said that "among the Morava Heights" where Greek mountain troops are driving at the Italian invasion base at Koriza itself, "our offensive action continued with success."

Other gains were claimed for Greek forces battling for domination of the supply route beyond Koriza.

"Our army ejected the enemy at bayonet point from positions which they had defended fiercely," the communiqué said.

It added that 11 of the large number of Italian planes which attacked Greek troops were shot down, with no Greek planes lost.

The original alliance, signed last Sept. 27 at Berlin, is a 10-year military and economic treaty which binds signers to a one-for-all and all-for-one pledge of aid against any new entrant into either the European or Chinese wars.

HITLER AT CEREMONY

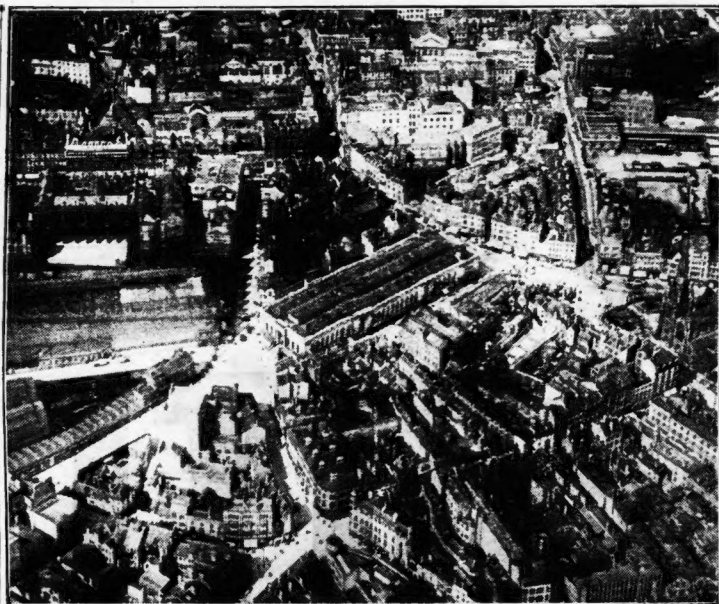

Hitler himself, surrounded by his highest military and diplomatic advisers, came to this one-time capital of Nazi-annexed Austria for the ceremony which added still another subscriber to the Axis' "new order" for Europe and Asia.

A protocol admitting Hungary to alliance membership was signed by Hungary's foreign minister, Count Istvan Csaky and, for the original signers, by Von Ribbentrop, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Saburo Kurusu, Japanese ambassador to Germany.

There was no intimation from any sources how soon any military operations might follow these Nazi diplomatic strides toward the Balkans, but scarcely an observer doubted such a step would be taken.

In the original agreement, Germany, Italy and Japan bound themselves "to assist one another with all political, economic and military

Birmingham Laid in Ruins as Nazi Armada Drops Bombs All Night

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP) — Far-visible fires and explosions, even greater than those that devastated Coventry a week ago, were left raging in Birmingham, Britain's second city, by night-long relays of fighting planes which dropped more than 1,000,000 pounds of bombs, the high command said today.

Five hundred planes dumped bombs, some of them of the greatest size, hour by hour on the armament and supply industries of Birmingham. Informed military sources said.

The high command's communiqué reported that London, Liverpool, Southampton and other ports and airfields came in for additional attacks.

FIRES LIGHT WAY

Swarms of German planes converged on the English midlands manufacturing center, a city of more than 1,000,000 inhabitants, they said, from bases in Holland, Belgium and France.

They declared Birmingham "suffered the same fate" as ruined Coventry and expressed confidence that important cogs in Britain's war-supply machinery were smashed by the onslaught.

Nazi formations, they said, found the first wave of bombers had lighted the target with more than 20 "large" fires.

Berlin, it was acknowledged officially, was raided twice, by British planes during the night, but the British air attacks were shrugged off as a failure.

"Each time, only one plane succeeded in flying over the city and dropping a number of incendiary and explosive bombs," an announcement said. "Hospitals, clinics and several apartment houses were struck. The resulting roof fires were quickly quenched."

"One bomber was downed by anti-aircraft on each of the two raids."

As with Coventry, a motor-manufacturing center, the raid on Birmingham was described as "retaliatory." When British airmen raided Munich Nov. 8, the night Adolf Hitler was there, and again when they bombarded the great German port of Hamburg after the Coventry attack, Nazis said the British attacks would be avenged.

Aided by clearing weather, they said, the German fliers crossed the English coast in large formations

Vatican Radio Raps Nazism

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 20 (AP) — The Vatican radio has contradicted a Spanish newspaper article which, it said, attributed Christian principles to German national socialism.

The Vatican broadcaster said yesterday the newspaper Alcazar referred to nazism as a religious movement of Christian character.

"Firstly, this statement manifestly contradicts the bulk of Nazi literature which, during the past eight years, with unparalleled power and ingenuity, has attacked religion and the Catholic Church," the broadcaster asserted.

"Secondly, if national socialism is a Christian movement, then how is it explained that in 1933 nearly all the youth in Germany was being taught in Catholic schools, whereas now these schools are closed?"

The radio first broadcast its contradictions Nov. 15, repeating them in a subsequent broadcast.

BRITAIN GETS ALL 26 NEW U. S. 'FLYING FORTRESSES'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (INS) — The United States has decided to release 26 of the most advanced type of Boeing "flying fortresses" to Great Britain and an official announcement to this effect is expected in the next few hours, authoritative government sources disclosed this afternoon.

Originally it had been planned to release only 13 of the 22-lion air giants under President Roosevelt's rule of the thumb policy which automatically makes 50 per cent of all aircraft production available to England. However, in a last minute decision, it was decided to release the entire group of 26 planes which are now in the final stages of assembly at Boeing's Seattle plant.

GIVE PLANES, GET ENGINES

To balance the priority thus given Britain, this government will take priority on 41 airplane engines now in production, half of which were originally slated to go to the hard-pressed British.

Announcement of the decision is scheduled to be made some time this afternoon by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

The planes are of the B-17-C type, the very latest produced by the company. The Army, however, has on order still later types which are expected to come off the assembly line early next year.

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

The B-17-C has a cruising range of between 3000 and 4000 miles and is capable of carrying a load of the heaviest bombs at that range. In addition, it is more streamlined and considerably speedier than the earlier "flying fortresses."

Delivery to the British will be made within the next few days. The huge planes will probably be taken to Canada and then ferried across to England.

This development came as more destroyers for Britain and planes for Greece became a distinct possibility as the administration made it clear that this government's aid to nations fighting the Axis powers is only getting under way.

Saltonstall to Quiz Long on Tax Plan

With Massachusetts citizens aroused to a "Boston Tea Party" pitch, Gov. Saltonstall hurried home from Springfield today to find out what Tax Commr. Henry F. Long's astounding sales tax proposals are all about.

As business-men, legislators and rich and poor alike roared their protests, the Governor confessed he was as much at sea about the entire program as the rest of an enraged citizenry.

"Commr. Long's declaration that he will seek a three per cent sales tax at the coming legislative session has taken me completely by surprise," Gov. Saltonstall declared.

"I haven't talked with Mr. Long and know nothing of his proposals. I am coming back to Boston to talk with him and find out what it is all about. Then, I will issue a statement."

WAITS BUDGET

After the Governor reached the State House, however, he declined to say whether or not he is in favor of Long's proposal. His comment was limited to the following type-written statement:

"Mr. Long has not discussed with me any legislative bill for additional taxes. The subject will not be considered by me until the budget commissioner has submitted his budget."

But others from every section of the state were much quicker to tell what they think about the Long proposals, which would touch the pocketbook of every citizen—even the youngster who buys an ice cream cone or a bottle of pop. Former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly was one of the protesters. Charging that the Long plan is "taxation without representation," Kelly declared that "important questions of this character should be placed before the voters in the form of a referendum on the ballot."

KELLY CITES LOTTERY

"Outstanding among these questions," he said, "was the recent referendum in the Nov. 3 election concerning the establishment of a state lottery as a solution to the problem of new revenue. The voters of Massachusetts only 15 days ago voted in favor

ROSLINDALE M. E. CHURCH IS BURNED

Flames roared from basement to roof of 67-year-old Bethany Methodist Church on Cummins highway, Roslindale, this afternoon, causing damage estimated by Fire Chief Samuel T. Pope at $20,000. Three alarms were sounded.

Hundreds of persons at the scene and scores of youngsters gathered at windows in Washington Irving school, across the street, saw the roof collapse as firemen battled to save the structure.

They did succeed in saving the 75-foot steeple, threatening momentarily to crash, and the chapel and rectory. But the center part of the church was burned through. Automobile traffic along the heavily traveled highway was blocked for a mile in either direction and trolley cars were halted in long lines. Extra police were called to get autoists moving from the scene.

Two boys at recess in the Washington Irving school saw the blaze and while one sounded the alarm, another notified a neighbor who called the Rev. Elmer Nordis Gilbertson, rector of the church, ordered all children to stay in school.

Thine Rev. Dr. Gilbertson, after getting his wife and two small sons out of the rectory in Sheldon st., close to the church, tried to rush in and save some valuables, but was driven back by smoke.

The fire, according to Dist. Chief Daniel Martell, started in the basement of the wooden building, but its cause has not yet been determined.

VICTORIOUS—Pictured with his wife and daughter, Ethel, is Treasurer Thomas U. Kelley, winner in Revere's mayoralty primary election. The city treasurer outran the field with Mayor Lawrence J. Gillis in runner-up position. More than 80 per cent of Revere's voters turned out to cast their ballots. (Story on Page 9)

'DOLL' DAUGHTER' TELLS JUDGE SHE PREFERS MOTHER

She'd rather not see her father at all than spend part of her vacation with him, slender, titian-haired Yvonne Heard, 16-year-old Brookline High School student, declared in Salem Probate court today.

The words of the wealthy young girl, characterized as "still in the doll stage" by her father, Col. Ralph Townsend Heard, U. S. A. startled spectators in the crowded courtroom.

"You really mean that?" Atty. Edward Flynn, counsel for the girl's divorced mother, asked.

"Yes, I do," Yvonne asserted. Furthermore, she had testified but a few minutes before, she doesn't play with dolls now.

The girl center of an 11-year-long series of court battles between Col. Heard, intelligence officer at Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Yvonne Heard, had been called to the stand at the request of Judge John V. Pilsan.

LIKES BROOKLINE HIGH

Col. Heard is seeking permission to modify the decree which gave the girl's custody to her mother and to send her to a private boarding school.

On taking the stand Yvonne testified that she lived with her mother in a six-room apartment in Beacon st., and that she was in her freshman year at Brookline High School.

She said she was taking violin lessons, had joined the school orchestra and numerous girls' clubs and was very happy at the high school.

Q—What is your wish, Yvonne? To remain at Brookline High or to go to boarding school as your father wishes you to? (The father maintained a boarding school would be more in keeping with the girl's social standing) A—I'd like to remain at Brookline High and then go to junior college or music school.

PREFERS MOTHER

Q—You know your father wants you to go to boarding school? A—Yes, but I'd rather stay at Brookline High. It's wonderful there and I've been showing much improvement.

She was asked why she didn't write to her father and she replied that she knew she should, but "just didn't."

Q—Is it due to what your mother tells you? A—No, it isn't. It's just myself. (At this she giggled.)

Q—What is your wish as to where you will continue to live? A—I'd like to stay in Brookline and go to school there.

Q—And with your mother? A—Yes.

Q—You've lived with her all your life? A—Yes.

Q—What's your mother's attitude toward you? A—She's awfully nice and I love her. She's always been kind to me.

Q—Where would you rather spend your vacation? A—I'd rather spend it with mother. I'm happier with her than with

AFL HEARS DEAL AIDE RAP PRESS

4 EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 20, 1940

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20 (AP)—A New Deal spokesman addressing the American Federation of labor convention here said today the result of the last general election gave American publishers their "greatest shock," and added some publishers are due for a great awakening.

The speaker was Sol A. Rosenblatt, general counsel of the Democratic national committee.

"Freedom of the press must mean something more than the right of the publisher to express any views he happens to hold on any public question, to refuse to publish the utterances of those who seek to controvert him, or to give over his whole publication to the sole purpose of furthering his individual and class interests," Rosenblatt told the convention.

F. D. VICTORY SHOCK

"It has been said that the greatest shock ever experienced by the newspapers of America was to wake up on the morning of Nov. 4, 1936, and discover that they had no influence in the presidential election."

"A greater shock overlook them on Nov. 6, 1940, when the great majority of American people gave their suffrages to President Roosevelt and returned him to the White House to continue his inspiring leadership of the nation. The newspapers this year were twice as solidly united against him as they were in the campaign of 1936."

Emphasizing that a "truly" free press must be supported, Rosenblatt declared "the fact is that with all its faults the American press today is freer than any other in the world."

URGES MODERN VIEW

"In discussing the responsibility of the press I do not mean to suggest that this is the only direction in which democracy must strengthen itself."

International News Photograph Service

Rosenblatt then suggested a "more modern viewpoint" is needed in the profession of law and that the "weak spots in our democracy" must be sought out and remedied. The convention, yesterday enthusiastic over President Roosevelt's message urging true between the AFL and Congress of Industrial Organizations, solemnly pondered the gloomy forecasts of their leaders.

Hillman Urges CIO Name Murray Chief

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 20 (AP)—Sidney Hillman called on the Congress of Industrial Organization convention today to "demand" that Philip Murray take the presidency soon to be vacated by John L. Lewis.

Murray, CIO vice-president, told the convention yesterday he was not a candidate for the position and did not want it. He asserted his interests in labor was the "promotion of our ideals, our concepts of true trade union American objectives."

UNITE WARRING FACTIONS

Hillman, CIO vice-president and National Defense Commissioner, urged that Murray take the presidency to unite the warring factions of the labor movement—the CIO and American Federation of Labor.

Hillman warned the convention to do nothing it "would regret in the future."

He made his first appearance in the convention hall where his followers advocating new efforts for unity with the American Federation of Labor, were overwhelmed by any by supporters of John L. Lewis. He said:

"The eyes of American labor and everyone concerned with the future of our nation are watching the CIO meeting to see if a sense of responsibility prevails."

TO STAY IN CIO

He asserted he had "no feeling of bitterness toward any officer of CIO," and added that the Amalgamated group would not quit the CIO, which it had helped to found.

"There has never been a suggestion of our organization leaving the CIO," Hillman said. "The Amalgamated will stay in CIO."

Lewis during debate on peace with the A. F. of L. yesterday suggested that any CIO organization which could not go along with the program could go back to the A. F. of L.

Hillman told the delegates today "we must lay out sound policies and follow them no matter what the cost because there may not be many opportunities to organize the workers."

"Every time we divide, the enemy moves in," he said. Hillman touched on his work on the Defense Commission and said he had placed before Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Co., yesterday in New York, "the need for accommodating" Bethlehem's labor policy with the Commission Labor Policy.

He added that he expected to ask the Ford Motor Co. "to bring their labor policy" into line with the Commission policy. This calls for compliance by defense contractors with all labor laws. CIO officials have complained that the policy had not been applied to Bethlehem and Ford companies on their defense contracts.

NLRB Ruling Is Appealed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Bethlehem Ship Building Corp. appealed to the Supreme Court today from a decision ordering the firm to withdraw recognition from plans of employee representation at the Fore River and Boston plants and to bargain collectively with Local 25 of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America at the Boston plant. The company contended that the Fore River plant was adopted in 1923 and that "a large majority of the employees have annually, beginning with the year 1923, expressed their approval of the plan and their desire for its continuance."

A similar plan was adopted at Boston in 1933.

House Faces Daily Roll Call

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The House agreed today to take things easy over the Thanksgiving week-end, and then ran into the first of a series of quorum calls predicted by members disappointed at their colleagues' refusal to adjourn for the year.

Rep. Dingell (D.) of Michigan, who forced the roll call, waved his arms in declaring there would be similar calls every day he was on the floor.

Those answering to their names numbered 272, or 67 fewer than the combined total in yesterday's 191-148 vote defeat of an adjournment resolution.

Agreement was obtained "to recess tomorrow and after a meeting Friday to recess again until Monday."

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, majority leader, said that so far as he knew there was no legislation in store for Friday, Monday "or in the future," and therefore House members "can govern themselves accordingly."

father. I have a better time with mother.

Q—You mean when you return from vacations with your father you have little spells of unhappiness? A—Yes.

Q—And you say unpleasant things to your mother? A—Yes. Then came a pause and the next question was stated slowly.

Q—Yvonne, do you play with dolls any more? A—Not now. Not any more.

She was then taken under cross-examination by Atty. Flynn.

Q—Your father is a pretty good fellow, isn't he? A—Yes.

Q—And he's always shown a thoroughly genuine interest in you? A—Yes.

Q—No question but what he loves you very much? A—Yes.

HAPPY WITH DAD

Q—And he'd been with you every opportunity when his duties permitted? A—Yes.

Q—And when you've been with him, at Washington, Long Island, New York, you've been extremely happy? A—Yes.

Q—The last time you had such a good time you didn't want to return? A—Yes. (And again she laughed.)

Q—You understand, Yvonne, your father would like you to spend part of your vacation with him and his people, who are also your people? A—Yes.

Q—And every time you've been there you have enjoyed yourself? A—Yes.

FIRM IN REPLY

But, she insisted, at this point, she would still rather spend her vacations with her mother, even though it might mean disappointment to the father.

—You'd prefer you never saw your father at all? A—Oh, no. He's called me when he's come to town.

Q—But you know your father is kept in Washington these days by his duties, unable to see you? A—Yes.

Flynn paused for a moment. Then he asked:

"You mean to tell us you would rather not see him at all than to spend part of your vacation with him?"

"Yes," the girl replied firmly. She was still on the stand when a recess was taken.

KELLY CLEARED IN NOTE SUIT

After deliberating only 55 minutes, a superior court jury today cleared former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly in a suit brought against him by the Jefferson Finance Co. of Boston to recover $882.37, the balance of a note for $1500.

The finding was revealed in a sealed verdict, opened before Judge Nelson P. Brown, upholding Kelly's contention an able contention of handwriting experts that the purported signature of Kelly on the note as indorse was a forgery.

In testimony the former lieutenant-governor charged that the suit had been brought against him in retaliation for his long-waged opposition to what he called high interest charges made by the loan companies.

The Jefferson Finance Co., he asserted, had wanted the case tried before the primaries in order to embarrass his candidacy for governor.

Kelly testified that he did not sign and would not sign any such note as that produced by the loan company in the names of Maurice M. Schaffer and Maurice Fishman as makers.

He was preceded on the stand by Miss Elizabeth McCarthy, Boston handwriting expert, who branded the purported Kelly signature a forgery and pointed out discrepancies between the signature and a known genuine Kelly signature made on a state warrant while he was acting governor.

JAIL TERM FOR DOWD BAGMAN

William J. Armstrong, 50, former chief engineer at Suffolk County courthouse and bribe collector for the missing ex-Sheriff John F. Dowd, must serve 16 months in the House of Correction at Deer Island.

In Superior Court today, just a year and a day after he pleaded guilty to an earlier indictment charging him with soliciting six guards at Charles at jail, Armstrong pleaded guilty to a second indictment.

This charged conspiracy to request and accept gratuities and gifts from county employees in behalf of Dowd. In this indictment were named also Dowd, Charles Hussey, former Dowd secretary who now is on the WPA, Frank C. (Chickie) Dolan, contractor, and Francis P. Rock.

No sentence was imposed on Armstrong when he pleaded in November a year ago and Judge Harold P. Williams imposed sentence today on both the indictments.

Judge Williams sentenced the former courthouse engineer to 16 months on each indictment, but said he would be credited for the time he has spent in jail, and in addition with the time off that would be credited to him—four days from each of the 12 months—if he had actually been serving the year and a day as an imposed sentence.

The result, said Judge Williams, was that Armstrong would have to serve a total of 16 months from now.

A request by John W. Newman, counsel for Armstrong, that the sentence be to Charles street jail was refused by Judge Williams, who said the time must be served at the House of Correction in the harbor.

WHERE IS JOHN DOWD?

More than a year has passed since the missing ex-sheriff took flight in the face of bribery charges. Today his asserted "bagman" received a jail sentence, but Dowd remains in hiding.

Who is aiding Dowd, financially or otherwise, to evade arrest?

Armstrong, 50 years old and living in Olney st., Dorchester, at the time he was arrested, was employed at the courthouse for several years before Dowd became sheriff, but became a confidante of Dowd after the latter's incumbency, according to the district attorney's office.

Red Cross Acts To Aid Defense

The central committee of the American Red Cross, meeting in extraordinary session, authorized Chairman Norman H. Davis to expand all Red Cross services connected with the national defense program, it was announced today.

The Red Cross, Mr. Davis explained, is charged with medical-social welfare work for the armed forces and will build additional structures for its use on military reservations.

More Red Cross nurses will be recruited immediately to staff military and naval hospitals.

The local chapter of the Red Cross will hold a special meeting at the Hotel Bradford tonight at 8:30, with George C. Hineckley, chairman of the Public Utilities Division of the Red Cross Roll Call in charge.

Reports from workers in the utilities industries will be heard and an open forum will be held on "The People's Red Cross."

The Red Cross Mattress Company has, for over 40 years, pioneered in manufacturing mattresses designed for utmost sleeping comfort. The "Pioneer" typifies their high standards of construction. You rest better on it because it has "hinge-action" coils that have greater flexibility than ordinary coils. You won't feel these coils because they're insulated with stitched sisal pads (34% of filling). Many layers of fluffed-up white cotton felt (66% of filling) give the top cushion-y softness. The ticking will wear well because it's 8-oz. fabric. The border won't break down because it has stitched reinforcement.

President to Enjoy Hyde Park Holiday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (INS)—Despite determination of Congress to remain continuously in session to meet any possible emergency, President Roosevelt decided to risk a seven-hour run today to his family home on the Hudson for Thanksgiving.

Barring some new and unexpected international development, Mr. Roosevelt plans to remain at Hyde Park over the week-end. White House aides predicted this would be the Chief Executive's last opportunity to leave Washington for more than a day or two until well after his inauguration for a third term on Jan. 20.

QUAKE ROCKS JAPAN

TOKYO, Nov. 20 (INS)—An earthquake rocked northern Japan early today. The shocks, the first of which were recorded shortly after midnight, were felt over a wide area.

NETWORKS RACE TO CREATE OWN SONGS IN MUSIC WAR

This is the third and final article in a series of interest to every radio listener. ASCAP, the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and the radio networks NBC and CBS are at war. The networks threaten to cut every ASCAP tune off the air by Jan. 1.

By JAMES DOOLING

This is what actually brought the networks into open warfare with ASCAP, although there have long since been signs and portents that hostilities were just around the corner.

In the past, ASCAP has had contracts only with individual radio stations; none with the networks, large or small.

ASCAP claims that with the growth of the network idea in commercial broadcasting, it has lost appreciable sums of revenue, and for this reason:

That when a network signed up an advertiser, providing broadcast of his program on 10, 20, 50—or any number of stations, the networks deducted its own fees, before pro-rating payments to individual stations.

PROPOSES SCHEDULE

Now, ASCAP believes it should collect on the entire transaction, but by terms of its contracts can only levy on what each station receives.

So for 1941, the 1935-40 contracts expiring, ASCAP proposed a new five-year schedule:

That for every station which did $50,000 or less commercial business in 1939, the ASCAP charges be cut from 5 to 3 per cent.

That for stations doing business between $50,000 and $150,000, the fee would be 4, instead of 5 per cent of commercial income—less the deductions explained yesterday, of course.

That the fee for stations doing more than $150,000, the charge of five per cent should stand.

BUT, says ASCAP, it now wants a 7½ per cent fee from the networks.

CLAIMS GOUGING

That proposal let all the pent-up feeling loose.

The networks claim they're being gouged.

ASCAP claims it is only proceeding along the principle on which it was founded—that whoever profits by playing music, pays for it to the men who made the music.

How it will all work out is anybody's guess at the moment.

As it stands, NBC and CBS have issued the ultimatum that no ASCAP music would go out over the air from their member stations in 1941 on the basis of the new proposed contract.

They have set up Broadcast Music, Inc.—BMI—to collect catalogues of songs and tunes; to buy compositions of new authors; to buy and buy those of established authors and composers, and to make new arrangements for songs which are free of copyright—public domain songs, they call these. Like "Auld Lang Syne," or "Yankee Doodle."

30 SONGS PER MONTH

It is claimed that BMI members are now turning out 30 songs a month. They are being plugged hard on radio now and will be plugged harder as the last weeks of 1940 go by.

BMI also claims it has bought out a number of copyrights on other music, and that it will have a catalogue complete enough to supply music for all radio by the first of the year through adding new arrangements of the public domain songs.

It points to the fact that it has already produced "There I Go," "Practice Makes Perfect," "Same Old Story" and other songs that are hits right now.

To all of which ASCAP retorts that radio won't be able to go along without its music in 1941 because the public won't stand losing the music of men like Cole Porter, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, Noel Coward, Jerome Kern and countless others.

ASCAP says its catalogues contain 500,000 songs, 360 times as many as BMI can hope for by Jan. 1, and that it has copyrights on 100,000 more arrangements of popular domain music.

REFUTES CHARGES

As for any hope of buying out rights of established composers and authors, ASCAP claims it has signed up already on new long-term contracts, 100 per cent of its present authors and composers and its publishers are now 95 per cent within the fold.

ASCAP further claims that charges it is gouging are unfounded and that whatever profits it makes go overwhelmingly into the pockets of the men who made the music and publish it.

It is a serious problem and no one realizes it better than the battling parties.

They may reach terms before the fateful first of the year.

If they don't you won't hear "Sweet Adeline" ever the air any more either.

It's ASCAP.

SNOW IN NEW MEXICO

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 20 (AP)—An early snow blanketed most of New Mexico today, slowing traffic and grounding airplanes. The weather bureau reported up to six inches of snow in the mountain is along the Continental Divide. Albuquerque had a two-inch fall—heaviest November snow since 1934.

of their elected officials establishing a state lottery.

"In my opinion, if this new 3 per cent sales tax were placed on a referendum to the voters, it would be defeated by a great majority. A state lottery, which has been approved by the people, should be tried out instead of a sales tax, which has never been approved."

Long said he had designed a measure to raise from $13,000,000

Hat by Tax

Jewelry Also

prove yourself, and how is it a necessity?"

He was asked about the luxury designation he had placed on many commodities, such as certain patent medicines, and he replied:

"Lots of them have alcohol for a base and alcohol is taxed already, isn't it? Mouth wash is a luxury. Say, there's nothing like water from the pipes and it frequently does more good and tastes better."

BACKS SALES TAX

Without naming names, Long said:

"Those in opposition, as usual, are opposed for strictly personal motives or plain business reasons."

"The handwriting on the wall is obvious. Real estate can no longer be drained to carry the burden of unemployment and welfare. A defense program and drafts help some but there will be no actual change in the tremendous cost of welfare."

"Unless we do something immediately private capital will be destroyed. A general sales tax is the only solution. I am certain that the tax will not affect business. Revenue will actually increase."

"I have talked with hundreds of taxpayers and have never run into opposition to sales tax if they knew the real problems of running a government."

CITIZEN SMOKE TAX

"We have collected more than $7,500,000 in cigarette taxes since Sept. 1, 1939, and my office has not received one complaint about the tax. People also have been paying the liquor tax without a murmur."

Long volunteered the information that he neither smokes nor drinks.
"I can't afford it," he said.

The state pays Commissioner
Long $7500 a year.—Editor's note.

"It shrieks to Heaven" and "It's simply outrageous" were some of the milder statements issued almost as soon as the state tax commissioner had stated his aims.

"This bill is so out of tune it shrieks to Heaven," it was declared by Daniel Bloomfield, manager of the Retail Trade Board.

"You can rest assured our organization, representing half a million consumers, will be on the alert when it comes up. It sounds like an un-American melody, and in line with the desperate efforts of the politicians to gouge the public for more money to spend."

Under the Long proposal common items of food, clothing, office and home furniture, bedding, ornaments—even tea and coffee for the table—would be hit by the proposed tax.

Kelley Tops Gillis In Revere Primary

Revere's primary election race proved one of the hottest in years with citizens of six Massachusetts cities going to the polls in the primaries.

In Revere, with 83 per cent of the registered voters turning out, City Treasurer Thomas G. Kelley outran the field, as a surprise victor, with Mayor Laurence J. Gillis squeaking into second place by an 81 vote margin.

Mayor Alexander C. Murray of Fall River and Mayor Daniel E. McLean of Beverly led mayoralty tickets, while Mayor Joseph B. O'Keefe of Peabody ran second and thus was assured of an election try as was Mayor Gillis of Revere.

In Lawrence, Alderman Cornelius J. Roche, seeking his second term of office, was high man on the ticket. His opponent will be Robert A. Barrett, Jr. Alderman David J. Burke, also seeking a second term, ran behind Thomas H. Shine, who will oppose him in the election race.

In Taunton, with less than a third of the voters turning out, all officeholders seeking re-election were renominated for ward council posts and the school committee.

LESSER OFFICES

In the lesser offices in various cities, the results were as follows:

In Revere, Andrew A. Cassata and George J. Foley will fight it out for treasurer, Clarence Clisbee and Thomas Lannon will be opponents for the assessor's office. Clarence R. Borden was nominated for tax collector.

School committee aspirants who will battle it out are Fannie Janvier, Harry Levy, Gertrude Mitchell, Charles Dwyer, John J. Riley, Albert Terminella and Carmine DiPietro.

Ward councillors nominated are James Lamphere, Harry Pines, Sam Stranick, Edward R. Witte, Jr., Patrick Rinaldi, William J. Mahoney, Sam DeStasio, James F. Robinson and Harold H. Canavan.

Councillors-at-large nominated in Revere were George McCullough, William H. Gallagher, George Land, Louis Kirshtein, Allen O'Brien, Athol Coadge, Richard Armstrong and Joseph Del Grosso.

In Fall River, Mayor Alexander C. Murray will contest the race with Dr. Owen L. Eagan, former member of the police commission. Also chosen were 13 candidates for nine city council posts and six school committee nominees.

BEVERLY RESULTS

In Beverly, Mayor Daniel E. McLean's plurality was more than the combined total vote of his two opponents. He will oppose George W. Gates, chairman of the Board of Aldermen, in the election.

Aldermen-at-large nominated were Edward E. Stokes, Victor A. Clark, Arthur W. Edwards, Horace V. Leighton, Fred L. True and Lawrence E. Duane.

In Ward 5, Wilfred J. St. Charles and James Slattery were nominated for aldermen. In Ward 1, Alderman Charles Low and Walter W. Burgess will contest. In Ward 3, winners were Alderman Joseph G. Scotti and Atty. Albert M. Cichetti.

100 More Draftees Report in Bay State

While the rejection ratio rose from one in five to one in four, more than 100 additional Bay Staters reported today at Army induction centers in Boston, Worcester and Springfield.

With the third assignment of potential trainees went 17 Greater Boston men selected by their local draft boards as replacements for those who had been rejected by Army medical specialists during examination of the first group Monday.

Draft boards also faced the task of finding 25 more replacements for the second group of 100 examined, plus the number to be rejected before nightfall and on Friday, the final day.

Total rejections may run as high as 100 alone in Massachusetts before the initial quota of 532 men is obtained.

REJECTIONS VARY

The percentage of volunteer draftees is reported high in some districts, but this is not true in others. For that reason, officials felt certain they would have to reach into the list of registrants and inaugurate actual drafting of men in cities and towns where the volunteer percentage is low.

Still another setback in plans of the Army to induct 864 New England peace time soldiers by Friday was the possibility that even those men already accepted may be discharged when X-ray findings of their lungs are made known.

The X-rays might well show a lung condition which would not be hazardous for a civilian but which could become serious for a man in the rugged routine of army life, officials said.

HUB EXAMINATIONS

Meanwhile, at Fort Devens the total New England peace time Army was swelled to a total of 451 men, but this was 85 short of the expected number of inductions at this point.

Unless the New England draft boards are able to make the necessary replacements by Friday the Army will not have its New England army of 864 men completed until next week.

On Friday, Boston volunteers sent by the city's 27 draft boards will pass through the gauntlet of medical inspection. No inductions are slated for tomorrow, the federal Thanksgiving.

Maj. Gen. James A. Woodruff, First Corps Area commander, arrived at Camp Devens to look over the trainees and planned to have dinner with them and shake the hand of each.

Of the first consignment approximately two-thirds were in khaki and the others were due to receive their uniforms today. Awakened by the penetrating whistle of a top sergeant at 6 a. m., the recruits breakfasted and then underwent vaccination, inoculation for typhoid—the first of three such treatments—and a mental test.

CAPT. C. G. DUFFY, COL. A. F. CHRISTIE, RADIO'S J. C. DALY, PVT. J. E. LAWTON Ft. Devens Broadcast Features Nation's No. 1 Draft Volunteer Lawton

The mental test comprised 150 questions in mathematics, English and logic and the draftees will be graded according to their standing.

In a radio address primarily directed to the men's families Maj. Gen. Woodruff had declared the Army's objective is to fit Selective Service trainees to meet the best troops of any nation, if necessary, and at the same time to return the men to civil life better able to follow their vocations.

Carpenters at Camp Edwards Wire Job Fee Protest to AFL

By JAMES F. McENANEY

CAMP EDWARDS, Nov. 20.—Unemployed carpenters who joined the local union only to see their jobs immediately go up in smoke carried their complaint straight to headquarters—the national A. F. of L. convention at New Orleans.

Hundreds of those got only one or two weeks' work of ten paying part or all of a $75 union membership fee demanded that William L. Hutchison, president of the International Uniting Brotherhood of Carpenters, come to their aid.

Their demands were telegraphed to Hutchison, who is also a first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, and now holding a presiding position at the national convention.

They asked that the national head investigate methods employed by Business Agent Joseph Guilbault of the local union, charging that he was guaranteed work at Camp Edwards if they paid union membership fees.

The telegram stated: "We believe that unfair treatment by Business Agent Joseph Guilbault of New Bedford local has been accorded us here at the Camp Edwards project. The excessive fee of $75 was invoked on unemployed carpenters who had no union affiliations in order to secure work."

"Anywhere from $25 to two limit was paid by us and then we were laid off after two weeks' work."

"We are all quite willing to pay a reasonable fee for being affiliated with the carpenters' union on the job, but since the union failed to live up to the end of the bargain we ask you to probe the serious situation and in fairness to all request part of the fee returned to those dismissed."

"If you decide to take any action in this matter we would appreciate communicating with Kenneth L. Taylor, secretary of Massachusetts Federation of Labor, also a delegate to the convention."

(Signed)
"Committee Unemployed Carpenters, Camp Edwards, Falmouth, Mass."

WILL DEMAND REFUND

In the meantime recently laid off carpenters and also those still on the job were rounding up other members, whether they are full fledged or had paid part of the initiation fee, and formulating plans to make a formal protest to the New Bedford local carpenters' union and a demand for a refund. The next regular meeting to be held Dec. 2.

Many of the new union members stated that before the Camp Edwards job there were only 125 members in the New Bedford local. The new membership has brought in not up many thousands and a few members hold the major vote if any action be taken.

Representative Charles L. Gifford, of Barnstable, in whose district the camp is located informed carpenters who complained that an unfair union situation existed here, that he was attempting to place the matter on the floor of Congress and also before a special congressional committee.

UNIONS AGREED

"All the unions with the exception of the local carpenters' union agreed that the main purpose was to get unemployed union men back to work first. After that the construction company should have been allowed to hire whatever outsiders they wished," Jenson said.

"If a man was willing to become a member of the union, that privilege and honor should have been granted him without the laying of any excessive initiation fee."

"However, the carpenters did not see the picture in that light and dictated their own policy with the result of considerable confusion and dissension among their new membership."

"Congressman Gifford was informed of these conditions and could have prevented the present situation if he had taken some action. I blame him for certain conditions at the camp."

ARMY DISTURBED

From Washington came reports that Army officials are quite disturbed over the manner in which certain officials of the carpenters' union conducted their business here.

In a press statement issued by Army authorities it was stated: "The union situation has been brought to our attention. However, we feel that the Army does not wish to enter into any internal labor disputes and trust that it will be ironed out in a suitable manner."

Agents for the Walsh Construction Co., private contractors for the new "army city," announced that their affiliations with the union leaders were entirely in accordance with War Department regulations and that they had no jurisdiction whatever over how the union conducted business.

RIGHT TO DISMISS

A spokesman for the construction company said: "We agree to pay the scale of $1.17½ per hour to every union man hired by us after being approved by the union as a competent worker. If we find that such men do not come up to the standards we require for such skilled labor it is our prerogative to dismiss them."

"That is the reason why we have let many go, and furthermore, the so-called 'boarding up' work is nearly completed. This type of work did not really require highly skilled carpenters. "What the union does insofar as initiation fees go, is not within our scope of jurisdiction. We supply the work, they supply the labor."

HUNGARY IN AXIS

means when one of the three contracting powers is attacked by a power not at present involved in the European war or in the Chinese-Japanese conflict

Since then, Italy has invaded Greece, contending the Greeks had acted actively with Britain by permitting her use of bases on Greek soil.

Besides the Fuehrer, German leaders in Vienna when Hungary was enrolled in the expanding alliance, included Field Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of a German high command; Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey who had been presumed to go on his way to Ankara; and other military adjutants. The brief protocol merely added Hungary to the partnership stipulated she would be called for conferences on questions serving her interests.

SHIFTED TO GERMANY
That Hungary, indebted to Germany for getting her northern Rumania back from Rumania, was a treaty partner was no surprise since she long had been considered in full harmony with the German Nazi rule.

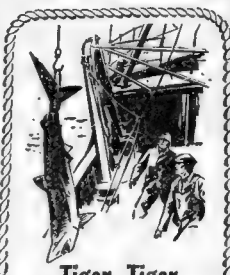

In purpose, she announced in a treaty partner was no surprise since she long had been considered in full harmony with the German Nazi rule.

Germany, Italy and Japan, as a Hungarian Government declaration issued here, "condemned the alliance to call a halt to the expansion of the war, which is severely burdening humanity, and thus give the world what is possible a lasting and peace."

It emphasized the aid of Rome in the recovery of Transylvania "without spilling blood through peaceful means."

Hungary, thrown to the ground through the unjust, devaluing Paris peace dictated during two decades," it said, "turned for help to those powers which were suffering from an equal fate and the same injustices and were fighting for their vital interests."

If Germany and Italy the declaration said they "have proved through deed that they are among the revision with peaceful means to achieve the slightest possibility offered."

Tiger, Tiger...

Sharks are the bane of 40-Fathom fishermen's lives.

Sometimes these ferocious "tigers of the sea" get caught in the trawl net as it is dragged on the bottom. More often they go after the fish as the big lead is hoisted to the surface.

In either case the result is the same—a net ripped full of holes and a repair job by the crew—only partly compensated for by the shark's liver, which is valuable.

It's all in the day's work for the men of New England who are supplying the nation's growing appetite for seafoods.

More Due to Follow Hungary Into Axis

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
(Associated Press War Analyst)

The "new order" which Hitler is painstakingly constructing in southeastern Europe opens up an entirely new phase in the science of subjection.

Hungary, induced with a thunder of drums into the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance, becomes the model. The other stepping stones in Germany's pathway to the Near East: Rumania, Bulgaria — and, most important, Turkey—are expected to get successfully in step. Greece, because she resisted Italy, may simply be crushed.

The alliance itself and its "one for all and all for one" terms are largely window dressing, in so far as Hitler's real design is concerned.

The real importance of the alliance is that Germany believes she has found a way to get these small nations to pull their own weight in the Nazi war to annihilate England by making them into protectorates, and avoiding altogether the expense, ruin and drain of invasion, military occupation and maintenance.

WILL PROVIDE SUPPLIES

Vast Nazi armies at their heads off from Norway's rocky northern tip to the beaches of Brittany. German boots stamp on the cobblestones from Warsaw to Brest. There are beaten, desperate people to be taken and imprisoned.

But in the Southeast, on his way to Syria, Palestine and Suez, Hitler means to avoid all that. The states that join his alliance not only will pledge their loyal political and economic and military co-operation with the Axis in return for military protection; they will summarily provide money, food, supplies and even men, and keep themselves in strict order.

They will have little chance to conceal anything from their overlords, for the terms of the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance provide for "joint" technical commissions to implement the treaty.

RUMANIA NEXT IN LINE

As in the case of today's alliance, representatives of Hungary will be called in for commission conferences." Called in! It does not require much imagination to see how such a commission can become in fact the government of the small ally.

Hungary is important, of course, largely as a model. However, there have been indications that something like this was really needed, from the German standpoint, in Hungary—for example, the recent troublesome coal strikes and their internal political repercussions, something that scarcely could occur in a truly totalitarian state.

Now it is up to Rumania, Bulgaria and Turkey, probably in that order.

Rumania, with perhaps a quarter million German troops already in her shrunken borders, ready to move on south, has no choice at all. Bulgaria has very little. Bulgaria may have to pay for her alliance very shortly by using her own army to attack Greece and help out the Italians.

COUNT ON RUSSIA

Turkey is the real nut to crack; Turkey, with her British alliance, her possession of the land bridge to the Near East, her clutch on the Dardanelles. But the Nazis are counting on the passive influence of Russia and the overwhelming weight of the "new order" to the north to bring Turkey smartly into parade formations.

Yugoslavia, for the moment, is left for Italy to handle. How long this will last is problematical, for the idea of an "axis" in Europe, implying two equal partners, is fast becoming a myth, and a purely German hegemony is taking its place.

In western Europe, Spain may be expected to join the alliance when Hitler gives the signal, and thereupon to pay part of the price of a German assault on Gibraltar. This share of the price may be paid in Spanish lives, for Spain has little else to give. The rumors that King Leopold of the Belgians has been seeing Hitler may indicate that Belgium will become the Axis model for the occupied nations. This is all the more likely now that "collaboration" with France has gone sour. As for the other original alliance partners, Italy and Japan, what do they get? Mussolini, it would seem, rescued from Greece, at a little cost Japan wins the psychological effect of the alliance on the United States—for what it is worth.

NAZIS IN NEW RAIDS ON BRITAIN

with which British anti-aircraft defenses could not cope and, besides Birmingham, delivered attacks on London and other southern cities.

Birmingham Pushes Arms Work Despite Raid

AN ENGLISH MIDLANDS CITY. Nov. 20 (INS)—This world-famous city, birthplace of statesmen and hub of industry, pulled itself out of air raid wreckage today and went back to the task of supplying the British army and air force with the sinews of war.

According to German communiques, the city is Birmingham, home of the late former Minister Neville Chamberlain—Editor's note.

There is no denying the heavy damage done when German planes came over during the night in waves after waves, dropping thousands of incendiary and high explosive bombs.

Casualties are high. But so is the city's indomitable spirit. The damages is by no means as heavy as inflicted upon Coventry last week, when Nazi raiders killed and injured 100 persons.

WORK AS USUAL

The raid, however, gave air raid precaution workers, fire fighters and home guards, a man's size task today. For hours they dug through the wreckage of private homes, public air raid shelters and scores of other buildings to rescue the injured and remove the bodies of dead.

While those charged with salvage and first aid pitched into their jobs, the rest of the people went to work in almost a normal manner. Buses ran as usual.

SHOPPING ZONE MENACED

When the attack began the raiders dropped parachute flares and then incendiary bombs which started numerous fires. A football ground was among the structures hit.

With the fires burning, the German planes then dropped a rain of high explosive bombs, particularly on one area which was lighted by a huge blaze.

In this area business premises suffered severely and one entire shopping district was littered with debris.

It was estimated that the Germans in their attack used easily as many planes as they did to attack Coventry—about 500.

Nazis Add Two Big Battleships

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (INS)—Two new 35,000-ton German battleships, equipped with 15-inch guns and warplane-catapults, are now in service, it was officially announced today.

The disclosure was made by the official army publication, "Wehrmacht," which revealed that the two giant warships, the Bismarck and the Tirpitz, laid down in 1936, are now completed.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

172 Coventry Dead Buried in One Grave

COVENTRY, England, Nov. 20 (AP)—While anti-aircraft guns barked at a lone German raider over this bomb-devastated city, 172 of some 330 persons killed in last Thursday's overnight attack were buried today in a common grave in the red clay of Coventry cemetery.

Two Spitfires finally chased the raider from the vicinity of the burial place as hundreds of mourners for those killed by others of his kind in a single night of horror laid wreaths along the 200-foot long trench dug for the flag-draped coffins.

The coffins, bearing shipping tags in lieu of the conventional name plates, were laid three deep in the trench. Some had been carried there last night.

One after another the rest were lowered into the earth in a silence broken only by the weeping of men and women.

The Bishop of Coventry, Metcalf, spoke at the communion service. He pleaded for a better understanding, a closer neighborliness and determination to go on.

The bishop was pronouncing the benediction when the German raider appeared. The crowd looked up, in anger and defiance. The guns spoke, then the British fighters moved toward the Nazi and he disappeared.

Near the grave is another trench where more of the dead will be buried tomorrow.

Nazi Torpedo Boat Sunk in Sea Clash

LONDON, Nov. 20 (AP)—A German torpedo boat was sunk in the North Sea last night by light British naval forces, the admiralty reported today.

The communiques said:

"During last night some of our light forces made contact with a German E-Boat in the North Sea. The E-Boat was sunk, and survivors were picked up by our forces, which sustained no damage or casualties."

to WIN!

Your Answers MUST
Be Complete Thru 5th
Series by Midnight
Saturday, Nov. 23rd

To Keep Your Entry in Good Standing,
All Check Sheets Through No. 30 MUST be Submitted by Midnight, this Coming Saturday!

NO TIME FOR DELAY if you want to win! It's now or never!—for after this week no more new contestants will be admitted into the contest!

Today for the last time, we print a coupon that brings you all of the previous Check Sheets, which can still be mailed to you in time to submit your answers before midnight, Saturday, the deadline for new starters!

$10,000.00 1st PRIZE

ALL FIRST FIVE SERIES (CHECK SHEETS 1-30)
MUST BE SUBMITTED BY MIDNIGHT, SATURDAY

To be eligible to continue in the contest, it is necessary that your entry be complete through the Fifth Series by midnight, this coming Saturday, November 23. All Check Sheets up through
No. 30 must be either in the mails or at the office of the Boston Record-American by that date and hour. This applies both to new starters and to those already in the contest.

SEND DIME WITH EACH SERIES

Bear in mind that answers are to be submitted in series of six.
This week's series is the Sixth Series and must be submitted before midnight, Saturday, November 30.

Each series of six Check Sheets must be accompanied by 10 cents in coin, in order to qualify your answers for a prize under the rules. Contestants completing the contest will receive a fascinating Quiz Booklet at the conclusion of the game.

NEATNESS DOES NOT COUNT

Neatness doesn't count, so there's no need to decorate or ornament your answers in any way. There'll be no letters or easy to write, either—and awards will be made solely on the basis of the highest number of answers checked correctly. And here's an important point:—THERE WILL BE BUT ONE CORRECT ANSWER TO EACH QUESTION—and no cases where one answer will be as good as another. No guesswork in this contest.

Contest Rules Reprinted Later This Week

All persons taking part in the contest shall be deemed to be bound by the official contest rules which are printed in the Record and American from time to time as space permits. Copies of the rules may be obtained from the Record-American Contest Editor at any time.

Police Keep Vigil at Attack Victim's Bed

Brookline police today maintained their vigil at the bedside of Mrs. Mildred Tinkham, 33, still hoping that she will soon awaken from the deep coma which has befogged her consciousness since Friday, the day she was brutally attacked in her Beacon st. home.

Hospital officials said that a brain pressure causing the coma may grow less in a few days.

Flying Cadet Exams Friday

A special examining board will sit Friday at Boston Army Base to give physical examinations to flying cadet candidates who wish to become army aviators.

Candidates, to qualify, must have two years of college education and must be unmarried citizens between their 20th and 27th birthdays.

The special board does away with considerable of the red tape which has been encountered previously by flying cadet candidates.

On Friday the candidate is passed or rejected in physical tests. If he passes and is qualified as to his college credits, his citizenship and his age and single status, he is "all set."

It is requested by Army officials that candidates, if possible, have their birth certificates with them as well as three letters of character recommendation and written evidence of their college credits.

The New England quota for aviation cadets has been doubled at it is now 140 per month.

A Thanksgiving Murder Mystery

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Eight police cars answered the alarm of a Manhattan tenant who found his bathroom walls streaming with blood and a large pool on the floor.

A quick inspection of the flat above gave a solution to what looked for a time like a full fledged "murder."

The folks upstairs had just killed their Thanksgiving turkey, throwing the bird into the bathroom to drain.

'ESCAPE' HELD OVER AT LOEW'S STATE AND ORPHEUM

Nazimova Gives Fine Portrayal

"Escape," Metro's film version of Ethel Vance's best-selling novel of the same name is holding over a second week on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Not the least impressive features of this handsome Norma Shearer-Robert Taylor co-starring production are the uniformly brilliant performances of the supporting players and Mervyn Leroy's skilled direction.

A whole armful of orchids go to Nazimova, stage star and star of silent films, who returns to the screen after 15 years to give one of the year's finest performances. She makes the plight of Emmy Ritter, imprisoned in a concentration camp and facing execution, so real that you forget she is acting and are tortured with pity.

Another superb portrayal is Philip Davis' Doctor Enten, Albert Bassermann's Henning, the aged lawyer, who is too sick and old to longer fight the Nazi system gives another of his amazing performances. Outstanding in the Frank Brown's faithful present servant, Fritz Conrad Vents Nazi general whose only weakness is Wagnerian music, and Flanerie Yukins brand prison nurse.

NORMA SHEARER never looked lovelier than in "Escape," Metro's filmization of Ethel Vance's best-selling novel, in which she plays the American-born countess. Robert Taylor is cast as the young American, son of Emmy Ritter. "Escape" continues a second week on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

MILT HERTH TRIO HEADS RKO-BOSTON STAGE SHOW

The Mil Herth Trio noted recording artists and Sibil Bowman, famous comedienne of Ziegfeld's Follies, head the gala stage show starting tomorrow and continuing through Sunday at the RKO Boston theater.

The screen features two first-run pictures, "I'm Still Alive," with Kent Taylor and Linda Hayes, and "The Old Swimmin' Hole" with Marcia Mae Jones and Jackie Moran.

Appearing for the first time in Boston, the Mil Herth Trio known as "The biggest little band in the land" consists of three men playing awing organ, piano and drums.

This group possesses the versatility of a full orchestra while being able, because of the unusual blend of instruments, to achieve melodic effects similar to those of a regular band.

Sibil Bowman is well-known to Boston's public for her impersonations of Hollywood stars.

"The Juggling Jester," Paul Nolan, adds his bit with deft manipulation of tennis balls and Toy and Wing, "Chinese dance stylists" present in strictly Occidental fashion tap, show and acrobatic routines. Other RKO acts round out the program.

'If I Had a Million'
Tops Bill at Bijou
"If I Had a Million," with George Raft, Gary Cooper and May Robson, and "My Son, My Son" with Brian Aherne and Madeleine Carroll, are the Bijou film attractions through tomorrow.

COMMISSIONER Henry F. Long, who lives in High street, Topsfield, whose telephone number is Topsfield 76 and whose various public offices have paid him approximately $150,000 in the past 26 years, is a very persistent man.

Though the people have repeatedly voiced their opposition to the enactment of Sales Tax legislation in this Commonwealth, the Commissioner still continues to advocate it.

His latest dream—or nightmare—concerns a thinly disguised confiscatory measure designed to bring an additional fifteen million dollars into the State treasury.

The money would be raised by virtually taxing the air citizens breathe.

Nobody would escape making a contribution—not even the little child who goes to the drugstore to buy an ice cream cone.

In fact, it is a problem to imagine any necessity of everyday life that would not be taxed.

Commissioner Long, resurrecting the usual and long since discredited defense of Sales Taxes, says:

"There should be further expansion of this type of legislation for the purpose of relieving taxation on real estate."

What Mr. Long does not say is that the relief for real estate would come chiefly by transferring the burden to men, women and children least able to pay more for everything they buy to eat, wear or use.

A law which promises to take ten dollars off the tax bill on her house will hardly satisfy Mrs. Jones if she realizes the same law will oblige her to pay as much as a hundred dollars MORE for the things she purchases for herself and her family during the next 12 months.

MR. LONG ALSO CLAIMS that his dearly beloved sales tax is going to raise money for public welfare and relief.

He does not say that he would do it by taxing the very people who receive public welfare and relief.

Unfortunate families and individuals who have been forced by economic necessity to accept municipal charity are not much different from luckier folks who have jobs.

They still drink tea and coffee, still use tooth paste, still wear shoes, still read books, still smoke an occasional cigarette, still play whist or bridge, still take a trusted patent medicine.

Consequently, because Mr. Long's new taxes would boost prices, the man or woman who receives a five-dollar welfare check from a city or town would be compelled to eat less, wear less and use less.

PERHAPS Mr. Long would serve the State of Massachusetts more effectively if he contented himself with laws already on the Statute Books instead of trying to create new ones.

Perhaps it would be better for himself and the people if he followed more literally Chapter Fourteen of the General Laws—a chapter that defines his duties as head of the Department of Corporations and Taxation.

His job is to enforce the tax laws that come under his jurisdiction.

The task of conceiving new legislation and enacting it belongs to the Legislature.

There is no necessity and certainly no demand by Senators, Representatives or the people as a whole for Mr. Long to go beyond his own office and intrude upon somebody else's territory.

In the Totalitarian countries abroad it is customary for the man who enforces laws to propose them.

Such one-man rule is not customary in Massachusetts and America.

If Mr. Long thinks he would be more useful in the law-making branch of the government than in the law enforcement department, he can always resign his present position and seek a place in the Legislature.

But, of course, that would mean his losing his high-salaried job and giving up a berth which already has netted him $150,000 of public funds.

In the interim it might be a good idea to abolish Mr. Long's office entirely or consolidate it with another department.

This would save at least ten thousand dollars—to relieve the burden on real estate.

REJECTIONS of young men who have volunteered for a year of military service are proving unexpectedly frequent.

Twenty per cent of the would-be soldiers who had been certified as physically fit by local draft board physicians were disqualified as unfit Monday, when they ran the gantlet of discriminating medical experts at Army induction centers.

Seventeen of the 84 men from Boston were returned home.

At first glance, the situation seems a serious one. Actually, it is far from discouraging.

The Army wants the cream of the millions of men made available by the Conscription law.

And the only way to obtain the best is to weed out at the start those who fail to meet the rigid standards.

On The Side

NIGHTLY in New York at the Stork Club and "Twenty-One" gather those referred to as the "wits" of Manhattan. At places where the check for two usually runs from eight dollars up, I am not, of course, in regular attendance. When I have been present at the aforementioned places it seemed to me the "wits" were trying too hard to be witty. The remarks they considered bright appeared to be falling flat. Seeing so tragic a thing happen to so many hard-working "wits" was depressing. I think these Stork Club and "Twenty-One" "wits" place too much faith in the wisecrack type of humor. A general discussion of some unique question affords a wit a better opportunity to display his talents. Dr. Johnson, greatest of coffee shop wits was aided in this respect by his friend Boswell who asked provocative questions. For example, Boswell would ask Johnson: "Sir, what would you do if locked in a tower with a six weeks old baby?" This query would give Johnson something to work with. It might be interesting to hear Lucius Beebe's answer. And, by the way, sir, what would you do if locked in a tower with a six weeks old baby?

A LONDON PAPER ASKS: "Why has Nazi Herman Goering been able to purchase twenty thousand pounds worth of pearls and one hundred thousand pounds worth of diamonds in London since the war started?" However, the question is not answered. If I learn the answer I will let you know. . . The Burma Road is at no place wider than 24 feet which makes it difficult for the Japanese bombers to hit.

HENDERSON, N. C., Tuesday—We changed trains in Washington. Because our typewriter seemed to go to pieces during the last few days of travel, the White House car came down to the station to bring us another typewriter, and to take back a bag we felt we could dispense with.

It was nice to see the smiling familiar faces and we almost wished that we did not have to get on another train. However, once on board, we enjoyed our breakfast and I must say that the sun shining on the familiar Virginia landscape was very attractive.

We worked all the way down to Lynchburg, Virginia. It seemed curious after so many cold days to find the sun almost too warm as it shone through the windows. At Lynchburg, we were met by the mayor of Henderson, N. C., and several ladies from the Business and Professional Women's Club of Henderson. They took us to lunch in a very attractive hotel and we found ourselves sharing the dining room with the Rotary Club. The club members offered to sing any song I wished but, unfortunately, I had to leave before they fulfilled their promise.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL looking Smithfield ham was presented to me in the lobby of the hotel. I hated to part with it, even to have it mailed back to Washington.

They promised to mail it special delivery today, so we could take it to Hyde Park for my mother-in-law to use at her Thanksgiving dinner.

The drive from Lynchburg to Henderson is through country which reminds me very much of what one sees around Warm Springs, Georgia. The pines are everywhere. There is a reddish tinge to the earth and cotton and tobacco seem to be the main crops.

PREFERS DUBLIN MISTS TO CALIFORNIA SUN
Actress Geraldine Fitzgerald with Jeffrey Lynn

"Under any circumstance," said a Chinese philosopher, "choosing a wife is like buying a walnut; you have to go largely by the outside."

GERALDINE FITZGERALD, the actress, was born in Dublin and is married to Edward Lindsay-Hogg, an Irish sportsman who devotes his time to composing music and racing thoroughbreds. An excellent combination of activities I would say. Geraldine, asked how she liked California, said: "I love the drive-in sand-wich places. The open-air markets and the race tracks; but I don't like the climate. Give me the mist and rains of Dublin every time" . . . "For Whom the Bell Tolls" by Ernest Hemingway has already sold 350,000 copies. It may break the record of "Gone With the Wind." Don't know Hemingway's deal with the publisher but for every regular edition copy sold of "Gone With the Wind," Margaret Mitchell received 45 cents . . . "We're both Irish" is what Gall Patrick, film performer, stated in court as one of the reasons she couldn't get along with her husband, Bob Cobb. This is libel on the Irish temperament. The Irish are inclined to get angry quickly but get over it soon. My uncle, of Irish descent, married an Irish girl, and the result was one of the happiest and most co-operative matrimonial partnerships I have ever known. The more I read about Hollywood divorces the more I am convinced somebody should write an article: "Should Movie Stars Marry?"

JERSEY VICTOR MAY FACE PROTEST

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—DORIS DUKE—Senator Barbour, who defeated your husband, Jimmy Cromwell, for the U. S. Senatorship from New Jersey, may face a protest against his being seated in the Senate—on a charge of excessive campaign expenditures . . . H. G. WELLS: This is the shape of things to come: Wells Lewis, son of Sinclair Lewis—and who was named after you—will quit his newspaper job on Jan. 1 to go into the Army . . . HAROLD ICKES: Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau wanted to follow your lead in submitting his resignation—but the President would have none of it . . . JULES ROMAINS: Your two esteemed colleagues, Girardoux and Antoine de Saint Exupéry—who wrote "Wind, Sand and Stars"—will arrive in this country shortly for good-will . . . HARRY HOPKINS: A new cornerstone had to be prepared at the ceremonies for the new Weather Bureau building in Washington last Friday. The old cornerstone had your name on it instead of that of your successor, Jesse Jones . . . Up until the last moment the Weather Bureau officials were in a quandary—wondering whether the ceremonies dedicating their new building should be held indoors or out . . . because they weren't quite sure whether it would rain. But luck was with them. The rain started only a few minutes after the ceremonies were over.

ALFRED LONDON: The pay envelopes of all Borden employees on Nov. 15 carried a message from Theodore G. Montague, president of the company, urging national unity . . . BILLY ROSE: When Eleanor Holm learned that a Boston museum was going to exhibit some of the masterpieces you own, she said: "Anything can happen in this world—when a carnival guy and a backstroke swimmer have Titians to lend to a museum in Boston" . . . SONNY WHITNEY: Joe Fejer, the Hungarian violinist whose orchestra played at many of the Whitney and Vanderbilt functions for a number of years, now is a wine and liquor salesman. He played three solos at the Copacabana Sunday night. When asked to do an encore, he said: "That's enough—for two cases of whiskey" . . . TOMMY CORCORAN: Ben Cohen expects to remain with the Administration even though you'll go into private practice . . . AGVA: Fred Allen and Jack Benny, who have refused $25,000 a week for a joint personal appearance, will go to Miami at the premiere of their picture in that city—and appear there gratis.

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY: Phone calls made while the President's yacht stopped during its cruise down the Potomac last week-end indicated that you won't receive the job as head of the Defense Council—and that William S. Knudsen will get it . . . PIERRE LAVAL: Your daughter will visit you soon. But her husband, René de Chambrun, leased a house in Florida . . . WALTER WANGER: You're responsible, in part, for the exhibition by the students of Kansas City Art Institute at the Assoc. Amer. Art Galleries in N. Y.—the first time such an event has occurred. When Reeves Lewenthal, director of A. A. A. Galleries, went to Hollywood for you, he stopped at Kansas City to dine with Thomas Benton. Benton invited 15 of his pupils, all under 30, and challenged Lewenthal to match the technical excellence of these young artists. And so the N. Y. exhibit was arranged, with canvases and their sales prices selected by Benton . . . RUBY KEELER: The Al Jolson show, "Hold On to Your Hats"—which you quit before its N. Y. premiere—already has paid off its investment.

NATL. ASSN. OF MANUF.: This is the plan being introduced by Donald O. Nelson of the Natl. Defense Council to have thousands of small factories throughout America participating in the defense program . . . A group of technicians would determine just what work each factory can do . . . Then, so that their work for private industry would not be disrupted, these plants would be expanded with loans from the local banks—guaranteed by the Federal Government. The Government, in turn, would install a technical expert to supervise the new program there.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: We hear that "Chuckin' Charlie" O'Rourke will be Coach Warren McGurk's assistant at Malden High School, and when Warren quits—as he plans—Charles the Great will succeed him . . . That is scheduled to take place within a couple of years . . . The Blonde Shiver will also teach at Malden High School, and will accept a pro football job—subject to a couple of conditions.

ONE OF THE CONDITIONS is that Charlie will play Sunday games only . . . The O'Rourke plans for the future would seem to give Sheldon Fairbanks a chance to sign the marvellous Malden boy for his Boston Bears of the American League . . . But Mr. Fairbanks is adhering to the letter of his league's code against "proselyting" players while they are undergraduates . . . But, if Charlie needs the tip, he can talk business with Sheldon at the proper time.

JOHN YAUKEES, EAGLES TACKLE, is another lad whom the Bears would appreciate having on the roster . . . And, although the first American League season under the present expanded setup was as satisfactory as expected, there still remains a chance that a Boston unit of the National League will become a 1941 development . . . If the Bears ever decided to "bolt" the new league, certain informed sources have it that the older organization would prefer talking business with Mr. Fairbanks than any other local sports-promoter.

ELMER WARD'S thirty-days option on the Bees has expired, but word reaches here that the option was extended and may yet be "action." With Elmer's extended partner, Bing Crosby, out of the picture . . . That Murray man from the Deep South, who was a Bees' bidder, has not given up, either.

SHIRLEY ROSS was a major-league, by the bye, in her guest appearance with Bob Hope last night.

SOCARRAS, the flute playing Cuban who doubles on a very terrib saxophone, has been held over at the Beachcomber, and a Chinese refugee, Mara, whom Tom Maran describes as "his exotique, is an added—and attractive—attraction" . . . ("Attractions" sometimes belie the name.) Mara's papa once owned a prosperous nightclub in one of the "occupied" sections of China.

MARA IS NOT the sole Chinese girl currently featured in a Boston show . . . At Colonel Al Somerby's renowned Howard Theater, a Miss Amy Fong is delighting the patrons with an Oriental version of the delicate pantomime art-form made famous by Ann Corio (and others) . . . Miss Corio, incidentally, has sent along a final draft of her autobiography, and George Flazier is editing it.

THEN THERE'S that noted shunna of burlesque, Gypsy Rose Lee . . . The item in a New York column to the effect that Miss Lee and George Davis, N. Y. fiction editor, are house-hunting is not quite accurate . . . In true Bohemian style, Mr. Davis, W. H. Auden, the English poet, Gypsy and Carson McCullough, the 23-year-old girl who wrote the good novel, "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter," have colonized a section of—don't laugh—Brooklyn.

SOMETHING TO LISTEN TO: Sophie Tucker (at the Mayfair) singing "Why Go to Havana," but best—

SHIRLEY ROSS
She Makes Big League Guest Appearance.

her repertory of "comes" including (of course) "Some of These Days" . . . Vaughn Monroe, the handsome singing-maestro, will begin an engagement at the Brunswick's Bermuda Terrace next Monday . . . It is not Vaughn's first appearance at the Brunswick . . . He sang there in 1936, at the start of his career as a band-leader.

VAUGHN returns with a "name" that is getting more important by the week, and of great importance—with three network "shots" a week.

JOAN FONTAINE
TO GET ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Joan Fontaine

DETROIT, Nov. 20 (INS)—At long last it is settled what Joan Fontaine is to do. Joan, remember, hasn't made a picture since "Rebecca" and there have been all sorts of rumors, including one that she was retiring. But today David Selznick agreed to loan her to Columbia for "And Now Goodbye," the James Hilton novel. What is particularly interesting is that Joan will be co-starred with her husband, Brian Aherne. I don't know of any actress who has taken greater pains to find just the right role following her big hit in "Rebecca." Plenty of eyebrows were lifted when she walked out on "Back Street," which was promptly accepted by Margaret Sullivan.

It was said Joan was getting difficult and temperamental, but I talked with her at the time and she told me frankly she just felt the part wasn't for her. The Hilton story starts right after the first of the year and there'll be no arguments between the Ahernes about top billing. Brian insists Joan have it.

SNAPSOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Understand Joan Davis has been talking to her attorney—but Cy Wills' friends hope she'll change her mind about a more serious step; Cecilia Parker, who went to the Cedars of Lebanon last week to welcome a little singer, went home again. Seems the stork deluded his call a week. Phil Carroll took four of his friends to the Hollywood Toppas and called up and took a nap when they ate.

Melba Auer heads for a personal appearance tour the 25th and Melba says there's not a chance in hell her wife will reconcile. But she says she'll be back with a saxophone solo at the L. C. and she seemed to like it; thought they might be interested in the "Four Daughters" series at Warner's and after four movies comes "Four Fathers."

Ida Lupino, president of the beautiful amethyst earrings, Lonsdale, gave her on their second anniversary. Baby Valerius's father and John Barrymore heeling Shipley M. and his sister; Bob Cummings hosted a dinner for the troops at one of the local cafes and we walked into a washing shower. The poor little bride-to-be took several pictures in the pastels all rushed for autographs. But Bob made up for it by sending her orchids.

The Dorothy Burgess who was married the other day is not Dorothy Burgess, the movie actress; she is engaged to Myron Schwartz, my little niece, Louella Ettinger, writes me she is to ride with Santa Claus on Nov. 26, and she is thrilled.

The young daughter of Al Santoro, Los Angeles Examiner's sports editor, rides in the yearly parade on Nov. 25 and, of course, some of Hollywood's top stars will be with them. (And we'll be home for Christmas this year.)

I SAID I WASN'T going to get in the middle of the Samuel Goldwyn-Gary-Cooper-Paramount-Warner Brothers tug-of-war over Gary's services—and I'm sticking to my story. But I must report the news as I find it and I happen to know Sam has just bought an original, "Blonde Blüzkrieg," to Gary. It is a "Mr. Deeds" type of comedy about a young professor who pays his first visit to Broadway and falls for a burlesque queen.

This Billy Wilder-Thomas Monroe story is scheduled for Coop right after he finishes "Sergeant York" at Warner's. As for the Paramount, "For Whom the Bell Tolls"—don't ask me, the way things are going in this four-year dispute seems to be tolling for everybody. But after all Sam holds Gary's contract—so he should know his place.

DON'T TELL ME these personals don't do a world of good. Phil Rangan hasn't having any luck in Hollywood until he went on personals, touring the Paramount theaters. He drew such big crowds to the shows in his "Smoking Gun" number that now the studio has signed him to a $25,000 contract.

His first will be a $25,000 picture with Constance Moore in "Springtime Sweetheart" and, of course, it's a musical with this singing trio. There's no youngster on the lot that Para has more ambitious plans for than Susanna. Give her a couple of pictures to grow up—and then she'll be launched as a young Jeanette MacDonald.

You Can Be Beautiful

Banish Those Blackheads

By ARLINE GOULD
IN THE JOLLY old winter time soot falls thickly along with the snow . . . and if you wind up the season with a complexion that's miserably pitted with blackheads it isn't necessarily a sign of neglect. Just that grimy atmosphere and your own oil-producing glands were too much for your feeble efforts.

Blackheads may be your bug-a-boo right now . . . or they may be making your young brother's life miserable . . . or your ugliness may make your husband so conscious of his shiny countenance that he forgets to bring out THE important selling point in talking to a client . . . whatever is the trouble, you should have on hand a "special skin wash" . . . will remove staring black pinheads in double quick time.

The special skin wash will keep young skin free and clear of those ugly blemishes . . . and that shiny-faced husband, whose oil glands are so active around the nose, forehead and mouth will undoubtedly acquire the habit of keeping some in his office. It isn't messy looking or smelling at all, and makes itself at home among washroom aids.

We can't think of anything harder to get rid of (not even Judge Fuffie's brother Robin) than the other disfiguring item called whiteheads or "milia." And special skin wash is a ready weapon for them, we're told.

Use it three or four times weekly . . . take a small amount in the palm of the hand, making a thin paste with a few drops of lukewarm water. Apply to washcloth or absorbent cotton (in dispelling oiliness, you might apply it right from the palms of your hands) and with a gentle circular motion apply the paste . . . then rinse with tepid water and blot dry.

All you reaching-for-glamour girls will discover this special skin wash is just right for dark elbows, or something out pebbly skin on neck, arms or legs!

If you'd like to learn about this special skin wash . . . a large 2 1/2 ounce jar for $1 . . . phone Arline Gould, T.1.Berty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ANNA MAY WONG GUEST AT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Aldrich are giving a cocktail party this afternoon at their beautiful French house in Brookline, in honor of Anna May Wong, noted Chinese film star who is devoting her time to raising funds to help stricken homeland.

At this party Miss Wong is having the opportunity of meeting many aristocratic Bostonians, including Mr. and Mrs. William Tudor Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Lawrence, Quentin Roosevelt, Isabella Grandin, Mr. and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips and John Lavalie, noted portrait painter who is doing a likeness of Miss Wong this week.

The portrait will be unveiled at the gala dinner and revue to be held at the Copley Plaza Dec. 9th.

IT'S the clear-skinned complexion that can "take it" . . . that can take the scrutiny of other eyes at closest quarters . . . and it's a marvelous help to confidence . . . confidence in business or school for career folk . . . confidence in conquest for the gals . . . who, like Wendy Barrie, can "take" an admiring glance from eyelash-length distance! Today Arline Gould tells of a special skin wash that will make a skin transparently clear and fine.

Junior League Get-Together

Junior Leaguers who spend much of their time as volunteer workers, assisting at hospitals and settlement houses throughout the city, will have their first get-together of the season at luncheon at the League tomorrow.

The newly elected provisional members of the League are invited to attend to get an idea of what will be expected of them in their social service work. Mr. Richard Winslow of the South End House will be the speaker.

Among those planning to attend are Anne Fay, Elizabeth S. White, Rostia Richmond, Alice Hunsaker, Anne W. Sturges, Mary Aycock, Priscilla Paine, Sancy Falvey, Betty Eved, Sylvia Choate, Margaret Gardner, Dagmar Pierce, Lucy Twitchell, Nancy Denny, Elizabeth Ayer, Sallie Newbold, Ernesta Reuter, Janet Simonds, John Cowin, Dorothy B. Thanksgiving Days Call Now for Special Menus

By MARTHA LEE

THANKSGIVING DAY dinner is always a case of putting the best food forward. Serving a baked ham with roast turkey or chicken is a popular custom in many homes. The flavors of both make a delicious combination. And the two meats are as good served together cold as they are hot.

Buy either a whole ham or a half ham, whichever best suits your needs. In either case, be sure that it's larger than you need for the one meal. Ham is such excellent material for resourceful follow-ups.

BAKE HAM SLOWLY

A ham is baked on a rack in an uncovered pan with its fat side up. No basting is necessary. In either case, be sure that it's larger than you need for the one meal. Ham is such excellent material for resourceful follow-ups.

Particularly appropriate for Thanksgiving is this cranberry almond glaze.

CRANBERRY ALMOND GLAZE

1/2 cup light brown sugar
2 cups cranberries
1/2 cup chopped almonds
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
Cloves

One half hour before the ham is done, remove the rind, if present, and score the fat diagonally. Insert cloves into the fat at regular intervals, sprinkle with brown sugar, return to the oven for a few minutes. Cook cranberries with water until tender, then add the sugar and almonds. When the brown sugar has melted on the ham, baste with the cranberry sauce and return to the oven to finish cooking.

OTHER GARNISHES

There are many other ways to garnish a ham. It may be scored, stuck with cloves, and Queen Anne cherries may be placed in each of the diamonds for design. They should be fastened with toothpicks. A cluster of apricots may be arranged on the ham and speedily may be placed about it, heated during the last few minutes of cooking.

There are so many ways to serve a ham that each time it can have a new and attractive "dress."

BAKED HAM WITH GLAZED PINEAPPLE

After ham has been spread with brown sugar, stud 8 to 10 small, canned pineapple rings with cloves and fasten on surface of ham with toothpicks. During baking, baste with pineapple syrup drained from the pineapple.

HAM BAKED IN CIDER

Marinate ham overnight in 1 1/2 quarts sharp cider. Remove from cider and place in a baking dish. Roast according to directions given. Just before the end of the baking period remove rind. Cover with a mixture of equal parts of brown

BLONDIE

THE platinum blonde suddenly remembered that she had to write some letters and left Brinda with Larsen.

"I somewhat envy you to belong to a neutral country during this awful war, Mr. Larsen," Brinda remarked. "For after all, Denmark has nothing to fear."

"No nothing," Larsen replied. "Then he looked at the water in the glass and said: 'Thanks for the coffee, Konrad!'"

They were interrupted by the assistant purser, who apologetically bowed in front of Brinda. "Excuse me, Miss Duncan, but will you be good enough to follow me into the office of the Chief Purser?"

Astonished, Brinda looked at Larsen, who seemed to share her surprise. She promised to return in a minute and followed the assistant purser into his chief's office.

With an enigmatic smile, the chief purser apologized deeply for having had to disturb his passenger and concluded his speech with, "The Commander wishes to talk to you, Miss Duncan, he's good enough to follow me." She was escorted to the Commander's cabin. He was a small man with piercing black eyes, a high staccato voice. Brinda couldn't take her eyes off his shiny black hair; he made her sit down, his face smiling and pleasant, as though he were going to offer her the royal suite on board.

"Miss Duncan, beginning tonight you shall be in custody—separated from all other passengers."

"You mean, a prisoner? Me?" Brinda murmured, profoundly shocked.

"Sorry . . . if you care to call it by such an ugly name."

"But you can't do that to me, my passport is in perfect order."

"I am sorry, Miss Duncan—I have an order here from our ambassador regarding your person."

"Your ambassador? Whose?"

A PRISONER

"Belin!"

Light suddenly dawned in Brinda's brain. She knew now she had been right in her suspicion. It enraged her to be locked up, made inactive. The one she suspected must have given her away. But she had one hope left.

Perhaps Dick would come in time and help. This was her only hope. The small commander got up, he gave orders to the purser in Dutch; then turned back to Brinda with his shy smile.

"Miss Duncan, you shall be locked in a stateroom. It has a porthole, but I would advise you not to use it. In war times we seldom fish for passengers overboard."

A few minutes later, Brinda sank down on the stateroom couch, as she heard the key click from the outside. After a sleepless night, she rang for her breakfast and asked to see the chief purser. He came immediately.

"Do you realize that your commander takes a tremendous chance by arresting a British subject without any reason?"

The exasperated smile of the officer reappeared again. "No one will ever know that you are not quite as free as you would like to be."

She knew that he was right. Her only hope was Dick. Perhaps he had planned to meet her in Gibraltar . . . Realizing the helplessness of her position, she lapsed into silence as the chief purser withdrew with a deep bow.

Suddenly the S. S. Vandalism slowed down. Only a few passengers noticed it. It was lunchtime, the dining room was filled with laughter. Then a complete stop and a woman's shrill voice could be heard distinctly: "Oh dear, I wonder if it is a submarine?"

Subconscious fear awakened in all passengers. The stewards looked out portholes—forgetting food on silver tables ready to be served.

"Where are my entrecote?" barked the man from Baku.

The platinum blonde sipped her consommé, her darkened eyelashes fluttering nervously. Kurt Larsen, seated at her table—looked startled. He continued eating, his hering heartily.

"Amusing sometimes to see mob hysteria," Kurt remarked, as the passengers became more and more restless. In the meantime many of them had looked out portholes and saw a large submarine floating a few hundred feet away—with the portentous awastika floating on it.

"They say it's a U-boat," she murmured, while Larsen dipped his spoon deeply into the caviar.

The excited chatter of the passengers came to a stop suddenly. Deathlike silence ensued as the chief purser appeared on the top of the stairways accompanied by the captain of the U-69.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began with his peculiar shrill voice, "the Captain of the U-69 has a message for you."

The silence became frightening. Too heavy accent and deep voice of the U-69 captain fascinated the passengers as a dangerous snake might.

"We must search this liner for a dangerous enemy and you must help. I give you an hour to find this person—we have no time to lose. If the enemy is not surrendered within sixty minutes, the Vandalism will explode."

The U-boat captain saluted and left the dining room, which remained as still as a cemetery.

But soon hysterical women began screaming—some big strong men crying—others, kneeling in prayer—while children continued to play, unaware of the danger.

Kurt Larsen, lit a cigarette, got up, and patted the platinum blonde's shoulder.

"Are you worried?"

With great big eyes, she snapped: "Stupid question! Of course I am! With calm stride, Larsen proceeded towards the stairway. 'Well, don't worry.'"

A middle-aged woman had fainted, the stewards tried to revive her. The blonde girl tried to light a cigarette.

"Duncan—Brinda . . . Born in—Burma, India, May 25th, 1916 . . . Single . . . Nationality: British . . . Residence, 16 Portland sq., London W. . . Passport issued by: Consulate in London . . ."

The Commander looked up at Larsen. "What's the charge against that girl?"

"Herr Kommandant, I must inform you that since the Vandalism left Southampton, this woman has tried to insinuate herself into my confidence and has asked me a great number of questions about out Fatherland, about dissensions that might occur if our party, etc. . . . Naturally, Herr Kommandant, I gave her false information while pretending to succumb to her wiles."

The officer appeared to be greatly interested by Larsen, who went on: "This would be enough to warrant our taking care of this woman. But you will be amazed, Herr Kommandant, when I reveal the true identity of this Miss Duncan."

"What do you mean . . . Is she traveling under false papers?"

"No, but I am absolutely sure that she is the confidential secretary of the chief of the British intelligence."

The U-boat commander seemed hardly able to hide his satisfaction. He looked at Larsen with a grin and exclaimed, "Wunderachschon, Z-33! You deserve the Iron Cross."

Kurt smiled modestly and concluded: "Herr Kommandant, I request that you officially arrest Miss Duncan immediately."

The U-boat commander rose and rang the bell, the chief purser responding.

"Do you wish something, sir?"

"Yes. Please call the two sailors who are on guard outside my office."

LISTEN WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

SOMETIMES you sleep and survey your life with shocked surprise. This time, colorless life isn't the sort you had planned—anything but! And your mind flashes back to the brave, bright dreams of your teens.

What splendid plans you had then. How full the years were to be with hot-blooded adventures, daring experiments, gallant crusades! And how you despised the cowards and sluggards who passed life up—languid, sentimental, old women; pompous, peevish old men. You weren't going to let your life ravel out like that. Never!

But now—what has happened? What has become of those tall visions? Gone—all of them. And their place? Dracary resignation, spineless submission. The same ignoble surrender you once despised in others! But why?

You think you know the answer. You've lost out, you believe because you "didn't have the right kind of home"—"the proper education"—or a "good job"—or a "fair break."

Or maybe you married the wrong person.

That's your story. But is it the real reason for your life's fadout? No, it isn't.

THE REAL REASON lies inside you—in your own fear of life.

The average person spends half his time yelling for a chance—and the other half running away from the chance when it comes.

We're waiting all the time for Something Big to happen—our eyes strained toward far horizons. And in the meantime some little thing happens. Maybe it's just a new thought. The chance to make some trivial change—do something seemingly unimportant. And we turn away.

We turn away because it doesn't

Men About Town

"Very well, sir."

For a few seconds, the commander and Nazi spy faced each other with radiant smiles. They looked like two huntmen ready to return home with a magnificent bull moose.

The two sailors entered and saluted the officer.

"Have Miss Duncan brought in right away?"

The chief purser objected apologetically: "Miss Duncan is in custody, sir; orders from . . ."

"Never mind orders—bring her in right away!" the German captain's voice thundered.

Within a few minutes Brinda was ushered in.

"Is this Miss Duncan?" the captain turned to Larsen. He nodded assent silently.

At this minute the U-boat skipper got up and pointing at Larsen said quietly in plain English: "Arrest this man immediately!"

Larsen recoiled as if from a Stuka-fired bomb.

"Pardon, Herr Kommandant . . . I don't understand . . ."

The Captain stopped him with a gesture. While two sailors handcuffed Larsen, their Commander took Kurt by the shoulder and burst into sarcastic laughter.

"Even the most experienced of spies—Baron Schleicher, alias Hor Brandtstetter—can encounter extraordinary surprises. But let me thank you for having helped us spot you—Mr. Z-33!"

HOW TO GET A LOAN AT LOWER COST

Reduced rates cut payments on all loans over $100

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum—if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2 1/2% per month has long been below the lawful maximum. Now a new reduction has cut Household's rate to 2% per month on that part of your loan in excess of $100.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made from furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers with you.

Ode to Lapsus Memoriae: Word for a Man in White

NEXT SATURDAY, AT 1:45 P. M., a quarter-hour before the Yale-Harvard kickoff, a little tableau will take place in the Yale Bowl.

Austen Lake

A chunky, russet-haired man, clad in white duck and wearing a Billikin's grin, will step from the West tunnel and into the November sunlight. He will carry a new leather egg under his arm and a traffic cop's whistle in his hand.

As he emerges from the shadows some 60,000 pairs of eyes will focus on him and a buzz of conversation will run round the big tureen. For the first time a football referee will vie with the rival varsities for curious attention. The answer is simple! Because William "Red" Friesell, No. 1 referee in Eastern major college football, experienced a lapsus memoriae, or brain-slip, at the Cornell-Dartmouth game last week—the most celebrated mental-skip since the late Dave Barry tolled his "long count" over Gene Tunney in the second Dempsey fight at Chicago. Remember?

Friesell feels chagrined at his "fifth-down" error. But let him be comforted by the fact that, like Cinderella's mice and pumpkins, it has changed into a genuine football blessing. Is that too Pollyannaish? No! For collegiate football in late years has been pushed back half the distance to its goal by college presidents and critics. It has been called a "commercial octopus," a "festering sore," an "educational blight," a "cultural hypocrisy." The colleges have been accused of exploiting the sufferings of the young for profit and publicity. Sportsmanship, phooie! Idealism, fudge!

So "Red," unwittingly of course, was an instrument for reviving public faith in both phoed and faughed virtues. Inadvertently he did the one thing that could de-emphasize the football balloon to its normal, bubble, size. For Cornell's grandiloquent gesture made it plain that football was second to principle, that an unbroken string of victories was subordinate to an unbroken pledge of good faith.

Dartmouth Still Welcomes Red

THERE'S SOMETHING ELSE THAT FITS into this strange mosaic. Today over the distance telephone I asked the Dartmouth coach, Earl Blaik, "What will Friesell's status be at future Dartmouth games?" and he replied, "The same as before. We'll welcome him back at any of our games."

Easy to say now that the tangle has been unraveled? Maybe! But the fact is that Blaik said it first to Friesell Saturday night when exasperation in Hanover was running high and the students were holding imitation torchlight parades for a victory they didn't possess. "Red," said Blaik, after a technical discussion, "you'll always be welcome as an official up here. This can't change our respect for you." And one suspect, from various authoritative sources, that when the 1941 list of college officials is posted, Friesell will again be assigned to referee the Cornell-Dartmouth game. See if that isn't so!

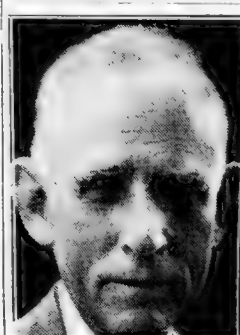

So college sportsmanship isn't bankrupt! Indeed today, after speculation by the press and public over whether Yale or Harvard might protest Friesell as referee of Saturday's game, Bill Bingham mailed the following letter to "Red's" Pittsburgh home. It ran:

"Dear Red—Never rains but it pours! The other day I sent you a clipping from the Harvard Crimson to re-assure you that there is no

'NO 5TH COLUMN, TERM OR DOWN'—HARVARD CRY

Although both Harvard and Yale have given their endorsement of William H. ("Red") Friesell as referee of the H-Y football game at New Haven on Saturday, the Harvard undergraduate body has shown resentment to the selection.

CLARK GRIFFITH

'Feeling Fine,' Says Old Fox, 71 Today

WASHINGTON Nov. 20 (AP).—Clark (The Old Fox) Griffith, who is almost as much a part of the capital as the Washington Monument, was 71 today.

"I'm feeling fine," said the sluggish-browed president of the Washington Senators—the only big league club president who was once a major league star—"except I've got a touch of lumbago." At 71, Clark Griffith has spent 50 years in baseball, years he said, he would want to spend no other way.

Who's the greatest pitcher who ever pitched?

"Walter Johnson," he said without the slightest hesitation. The greatest team?

"Well," said Griff, "that's hard to say. I've got to think it over. Come around on my 81st birthday and I'll tell you."

On the subject of national offense and baseball, the old fox has decided views.

"I don't believe there's a baseball player alive who ought to be deferred because he's a ball pitcher. If they want him to go, if they call on the whole team, then they all ought to go."

The boys fear Friesell "will have a case of the pitters" as a result of his longer on successive week-ends in the Harvard Penn and Cornell-Dartmouth games, games which affected the outcome of both games.

A group of Harvard graduates announced today that they will parade in the Yale Bowl before the game carrying signs saying: "No Fifth Column, No Fifth Term, No Fifth Down."

RESENT OMNISCIENCE

"No official is bigger than the game itself," said one spokesman for the undergraduates, "but Friesell never seemed to realize it. One would think the spectators came to see him perform, rather than the team, the way he stunts around on the gridiron."

The undergraduate pointed to the remarks of Grantland Rice to back up his contention.

"And Rice," Friesell's main hater was in his failure to check the situation thoroughly after Capt. Lou Young (Dartmouth) had made his protest. That would have been a simple matter.

"A football official has a tough job. There is no reason to make it a still tougher job by TRYING TO TAKE AN EGG MUCH AUTHORITY. TRYING TO BE TOO BIG A PART OF THE SHOW."

NOT FAIR TO BOYS

The undergraduate ordered warned up to his subject.

"I'm not speaking for the university, understand, but we all figure here that an underdog team such as Harvard was against Penn, Dartmouth and Cornell should not be deprived of a victory. It justly deserves simply because one official out of four insists upon running the game."

"It certainly isn't fair to the boys, who not only played their hearts out in the games but have been working for that one objective all season."

"Mr. Friesell will find out how we feel about it when we march into the Bowl with banners waving Saturday."

The undergraduate pulled out a clipping which the Associated Press credited today.

"Read this," he urged.

Here are excerpts from that Associated Press story:

"One prominent eastern coach pointed out that there never would have been any confusion over the number of downs, if Friesell had taken time to consult with Dartmouth Captain Lou Young when the latter protested that Cornell was being given an extra down."

OFFEN BRUSHED OFF

"This coach said his own captain had been brushed off sev-

Acclaimed as one of the greatest grid battles of modern football, the thrilling spectacle between Boston College and Georgetown at Fenway Park will be shown in News of the Day Newseum at Locw's State and Orpheum theaters beginning today.

The showing of the pictures, which clearly replay the entire game, affords every Bostonian who failed to join in the grid rush that balked Tim Yawkey's ball orchard in its capacity Saturday, an opportunity to witness for themselves why the boys from the Heights are the toast of the town.

Several times by officials when seeking rules interpretation, though the football rules specifically give the captain the right to ask for such interpretation.

"He recalled, too, the Harvard-Penn game 10 days ago, in which Penn was offside on the Harvard field goal which that score at 10-10.

"Harvard, therefore, should have had the choice of taking the three points or getting a first down on the Penn 3-yard line."

"The Harvard acting captain, asked after the game why he declined the penalty, said he one had told him there was one, and he didn't know he had a choice."

"The referee in this game also was Friesell."

Move to Prevent

Repetition of Fiasco

NEW YORK Nov. 20 (AP).—Anxious that revision of the Cornell-Dartmouth game should not establish a precedent which could become a pattern to be copied by players and officials, Coach Alva Bushnell of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association today urged the unique circumstances under which the "fifth down" occurred at Hanover occurred.

Bushnell pointed out that only when an official reverses his decision on the last play of a game is it possible to accept such a reversal and permit it to become the final score.

"In any sport such as football," his statement read, in part, "where the game unfolds in a competitive series of interlocking and inter-dependent plays, it is manifestly impossible to alter any one of these plays without affecting and perhaps altering every one of them which follows."

"Thus the Dartmouth-Cornell game provided the one case in a million in which change could be made without establishing a dangerous precedent, for to do the error which proved decisive about a scoring play which also was the very last play of the 1941 period."

"Fifteen yard penalty" against your officiating as far as we are concerned. You had a bad day and, as I said, it proves that you can be as human as the rest of us.

"You need no letter from me now to assure you that my opinion of you as an official is still 5 (Feh. Note—Football officials are rated from 1-low to 5-high). You are, and I say this most sincerely the best referee in the game—fearless, honest and efficient. Good luck to you Saturday—Bill Bingham."

We've All Made Mistakes

THE CRIMSON CLIPPING REFERRED TO in Bingham's letter was from the Nov. 12 issue, the Monday following the Harvard-Penn game in which Fursell, presumably, neglected to give the Harvard captain choice of options—viz, the tying field goal or a Penn offside which would have put the ball, first down, on Penn's two yard line.

It read, in part, "Referee Fursell made an honest mistake which cost Harvard a stunning victory, but his error is perfectly understandable. . . His mistake was unintentional and there is every reason to defend him publicly." And that comes from the traditionally red-eared, crusading, youthful editorialists who have raised blisters on many a sensitive stern.

Every college football official has made mistakes—I know I have! Every doctor has committed a blunder! Every lawyer has his errors! Yet I've often wondered, after listening to the crowd pour some official over with massed scorn, why it is that men with responsible jobs and sufficient income—judges, school principals, professional men—can be induced to chase some elusive kid with a bag of wind under his arm. Why risk liver, lungs and heart on bandy-legged gallops? Why?

Well, there's a little money in it, which ranges from $35 to $75. That's an incentive. But it isn't enough. Most of the college officials are ex-varsity codgers. Officiating renews their contact with lost youth. The lean kids in the colored woolens, the great tiers of humanity, the strutting musicians, the howling hordes add sparkle to their pulse. Most of them would do it if they didn't get a dime.

So, as the last few weeks have shown, the life of the man in the linen knickers isn't all beer and skittles. Which is why Aaa Bushnell, the Commissioner, in last September's felicitations to his officials, remarked philosophically, "Football followers rarely read of official's actions unless these involve blunders."

All Equal On Rifle Range

A tremendous pickup in interest in the arts of rifle shooting under expert guidance and coaching is noticeable throughout New England junior groups.

Entries in the William Randolph Hearst Junior Rifle Trophy competition offer substantial proof of the new trend in sports endeavor among both schoolboys and schoolgirls as well as collegians of both sexes.

Many youngsters who "brough physical reasons, perhaps, find themselves left out in the cold when it comes to playing football, baseball, hockey and some of the other more violent forms of scholastic athletics are able, through marksmanship, to take a most active part in the competitive life of the school by engaging in rifle shooting.

SIZE NO BARRIER

Here size is no barrier and all boys are equal, a keen eye and steady nerves, plus regular habits being the essentials to success.

Schools everywhere are more and more offering opportunities in marksmanship to their pupils. Thanks to the many experts available to supervise and train the tyros, to watch with cautious eye that safety measures of the strictest are enforced, accidents are almost entirely eliminated and youngsters are taught defense measures which they will carry as valuable assets throughout later life.

It is a wholesome sport and it is particularly noticeable that the cleanest, finest types of juveniles are the ones largely attracted to it.

It is for that reason that the rifle editor of the American-Record is particularly gratified with a letter of entry in today's mail.

ATTRACTS BEST

It comes from Thomas J. Jones, director of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Youth Organization, of Jamaica Plain.

Jones explains that Our Lady of Lourdes C. Y. O. has formed a rifle team and will enter the Hearst Junior Rifle Trophy competition and expects many other teams on this same C. Y. O. to follow suit.

With the backing of such outstanding organizations and with their wholehearted co-operation it becomes a certainty that the manly Hearst rifle classic will throughout the winter months become a tremendous success.

All boy and girl teams, whose members are under 19 years of age, are eligible to compete—no entry fee. The one big requirement is that each and every participant must sign an oath of allegiance to the flag of the United States.

DEFENSE TACTICS FAIL B'S AND WINGS COME ON TO TIE

By BILL GRIMES

A piece of "master minding" boomeranged on the Bruins last night at the Garden and they wound up in a 4-4 overtime deadlock with the Detroit Red Wings much to the disappointment of 10,000 fans.

Going into the third period, the Rosenmen were leading 4 to 2. It looked as if they were well on their way to their initial victory of the season.

But, instead of keeping the pressure on the Red Wings, the Bruins elected to play defensive hockey, which is one branch of the game that they have never been able to master. And last night was no exception.

BRIMSEK'S VISION BLOCKED

They became over-cautious and, within five minutes, an Alex Motter goal had the Red Wings back in the ball game. Still the Rosenmen refused to open up to any great extent and at 11:49, Syd Howe lifted a shot through about four Bruins, who were blocking Frankie Brimsek's vision and the game was "all even."

The Bruins had a decided edge on shots. They peppered Johnny Mowers from all angles but the Detroit rookie goal minder had a great night. Of the 37 "on the net" shots made by the Rosenmen, Mowers turned aside no less than 33. On the other hand, Frankie Brimsek missed four of the 13 shots on his cage.

The Bruins didn't play up to their standard. But Manager Jack Adams showed a better balanced and better fighting club than he has brought here in some seasons. The Red Wings were faster than most of the Bruins and then backchecked and covered more effectively than did the Rosenmen.

Shortly after the opening face-off, Bobby Bauer broke through and rifled at shot at Mowers. The Detroit goalie didn't see the shot but Lady Luck was with him for the puck hit the upright and deflected into the rink corner.

BRIMSEK CLEARS

The Bruins pressed so hard that the Red Wings were unable to get the puck out of their own zone during the first two minutes of the game. Finally, after the first change of lines, Syd Abel fired one which sailed between Les Smith's legs and Brimsek had his first chance, which he handled cleverly.

Just before half time, Art Jackson took a pass from Dit Clapper and his shot brought Mowers to his knees to make the save. It was a close call. On the next Detroit rush, Jack Stewart penetrated the Boston outer defense but was unable to get off a real shot. Then Brimsek made two stops at the puck before he was able to clear it.

At 11:32, Syd Howe stole the puck from Dit Clapper 15 feet in from the blue line and beat Brimsek for the first goal.

Along about this time, the players began to get better acquainted and the game began to roughen up. Jack Crawford and Jimmy Orlando exchanged a few elbow swings and were sent to the penalty box for two minutes to cool off.

With both clubs a man short Clapper took off at Abel in hot fire and rebounded his man who continued on into the Boston zone where Shewchuk nailed him with a heavy body check.

About one second before the first pair of offenders had served their penalties, Milt Schmidt took a flying leap at Mud Bruneteau and away they went for a two-minute rest.

M. Hill produced the first Boston tally at 3:06 in the second period. He dribbled through most of the Detroit sextet and fired for the equalizer.

But less than a minute later, Syd Abel put the Red Wings out in front again on a fast combination play with Eddie Weir.

Then Roy Camacher brought the crowd to its feet with a goal which was deflected into the cage off a skate. Jack Crawford started this play by passing out to Roy Camacher on the left wing. Roy raced around the Detroit cage and attempted to hook the puck into the net but it slipped off the toe of his stick, connected with a skate and got home for the tying goal.

BRUINS TAKE LEAD

There was no scoring during the next 10 minutes. Then Eddie Weir, Herbie Cain and Art Jackson put on a three man attack and the first named scored a goal which put the Bruins out in front for the first time this season. And about two minutes before the bell, Herbie Cain scored, aided and abetted by Bill Hollett and Eddie Weir.

So, going into the third, and what should have been the final chapter, the Bruins were leading 3 to 2. Then came that bit of strategy which called for defensive hockey and within 12 minutes, they had blown their two goal lead and the game wound up 4-4 after a 10 minute overtime period.

Hatlo Hingham Seeks Grid Revenge

Harry Arlanson's great undefeated and untied Weymouth High juggernaut taken on Hingham at Legion Field, Weymouth, on Thanksgiving Day morning. Bill Cronin's Hingham charges were 18, 0-0 by Weymouth a year ago on Turkey Day.

Weymouth High has run up a string of eight consecutive victories to date.

There will be only one schoolboy clash on the South Shore next Saturday afternoon. Braintree will trek to Hingham to play a ruined-out game originally scheduled for last week.

Whitman-Coyle, another ruined-out game was played on Monday of this week at Whitman. Coyle won the game by a touchdown, but the greatest personal efforts of the afternoon were met by any Coyle man, but by Don Plausse of Whitman.

A week from tomorrow Scituate High will drop the curtain on its football season by squaring off with its old traditional rival, Marshfield High. Ed Stewart has turned out a good Scituate team this year. His club has won five consecutive games, losing only the first game of the campaign, that to Dighton. George Bresnahan has been playing a hard, aggressive hand of football in the Scituate line to date.

The Abington-Whitman game to be played on the holiday will give the fans a real, hard, bruising game to watch. This will be the last game that George MacPhabry, last of the South Shore fallbacks, will play for Abington, so you may expect great things from George in that game.

Another Thanksgiving Day tilt will include Braintree and Milton. George Clougherty has been performing in perfect style this season and there's sign of his letting up.

Hanover High jubilant over their win last Saturday, will move to Cohasset for a holiday meeting. Burke, Hanover halfback scored four touchdowns against Falm and Trade last week.

Fesler, who was an All-American end at Ohio State in 1931, today admitted that he will confer with Wesleyan officials Sunday. Jack Holt, the official coach at Wesleyan, reported after a visit to Boston several months ago that it would respect his past to enter Wesleyan's line of defense.

Portland Sold To Canadiens

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP)—William J. Tobin of the Chicago Blackhawks announced today the outright sale of defenseman Jack Portland to the Montreal Canadiens. The deal was a straight cash transaction with no players involved.

Portland came to the Hawks from the Boston Bruins midway in the 1939-40 season. Portland's place was expected to be filled by Dave Mackay, who led yesterday by the Bruins from Providence, R. I.

Leahy Revamps Ends

By FRANK FENWAY

Only one sour note marred the symphony of joyous enthusiasm which resounded throughout Fenway Park last Saturday during the even now, legendary struggle between the great Hoyas of Georgetown and even greater Boston College.

It swept the packed ballyard toward the close of the second period when a husky youngster was carried from the field, his face stained with tears of agony from the hurt of a twisted right knee and tears of rage over his inability to be of further aid to his teammates in their greatest need.

The lad was Gene Goodreault, of Haverhill, certainly one of the greatest ends ever to perform in this section of the country, and a candidate for All-America honors.

He was found to be too seriously injured to play further in that game and he watched his Eagles go on to glorious victory from the sidelines, his personal sorrow eased by the victory of his mates and the personal triumph of Charlie O'Rourke, his room-mate and pal.

CURRIVAN SHIFTED

Yesterday, when the Eagles resumed practice, among those present was Goodreault, hobbling on a cane, his knee swollen to twice its usual size, stout-heartedly insisting he'd be ready for the battle with Auburn this week-end.

But it was significant to note that when Boston College began its practice session Don Curri-van, brilliant young sophomore, had been shifted from left end to right end in order to under-stand Goodreault's successor, Ed Zabalski.

It meant that Coach Frank Leahy is not going to allow Gene Goodreault to play football for him Saturday, despite his immense value to the team, unless he is physically fit.

Quite possibly this attitude on his coach's part will not make sense to the rugged Haverhill boy. Right now football is pretty im-portant to him and worth the risk of permanent injury.

But hundreds of former football players who were once newspaper headlines and are now Tom, Dick and Harry and who realize how the glories of football fade into insignificance in later life, will applaud Frank Leahy for not risk-ing further injury to this boy.

NAUMETZ SUB FOR ZABALSKI

You can't help but feel that Boston College is fortunate in having Frank Leahy as a coach, not because of his ability to pro-duce winning football teams, but because he is such a thorough gentleman.

Great football players will go to Boston College in the future be-cause the parents of those players will want them to come under the influence of a coach who will teach them something beyond football, something of value after they are graduated.

The loss of Goodreault against Auburn will seriously hamper Leahy, already handicapped by the loss through injury of Al Lukachik at the other wing.

Bringing Curri-van over to spell Zabalski leaves the task of pro-tecting the left flank to the capable Henry Woronicz, of Brockton, and Fred Naumetz, shifted from a center berth yes-terday.

Naumetz is no stranger to end play, having reported for that position as a freshman at the Heights last season. He was shifted to the center berth when it appeared as though the Eagles were overloaded with power at the flanks.

But back to end he went yester-day and there he'll stay unless Coach Leahy is firmly convinced that Gene Goodreault is physically fit to play football.

WESTY ARENA CHOICE

Young Tommy O'Toole, the husky Southern California Irishman might be the most talked of wrestler in the business today, but nevertheless he will be the under-dog when he clashes with Marvin Westenberg, former world's cham-pion, in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's all-star show tonight at the Arena.

Only a week ago young O'Toole accomplished the almost unbel-ievable when he heaved Steve Casey to defeat and thus took his place with the front contenders for the world's heavyweight title. But that victory may have been an ac-cident, the experts say, and to many of them Tommy is still an unproven kid.

It goes without saying that the youthful O'Toole will be in for all he bargains for tonight, for Westy is a real wrestler. He can play with the boys who always work science, or he can get as rough and tough as any of them.

Race Horses Believed Eaten

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Two of France's most famous sta-tions, Mon Talisman and Clairvoyant, which have been missing since June, are now believed to have been killed and eaten during the big ex-cursion from Paris.

Horse flesh worth $100 a pound, says the Petit Parisien, met the fate of common truck horses, perhaps being sold at 10 cents a pound in one of France's numerous horse meat stores.

Mon Talisman and Clair-voyant belonged to a wealthy Argentinian, Eduardo Marti-nez de Hoz. The former won the French Derby in 1927, the latter won the Grand Prix de Paris in 1937.

WHEN JIMMY WILSON at the age of 40 took Ernie Lombardi's place behind the bat in the World's Series when the Reds' star catcher was on the injured list he did not realize he was winning a $20,000 a year job as manager of the Cubs.

JIMMY WILSON

Wilson received little attention as coach for Bill McKeechie's club. It was not until Wilson was rushed into the lineup to take the place of Lombardi that he came in for any headlines. Wilson's masterful handling of the Reds' pitchers had much to do with the team coming from behind to win the World's Series from the Tigers.

Wilson's playing and coaching in the series attracted the attention of the Cubs' management, and when Gabby Hartnett was cast adrift he was tendered a $20,000 a year contract as manager. Warren Giles, general manager of the Reds, gave Wilson his unconditional release so that he could accept the Chicago post.

Wilson managed the Phillies from 1934 through 1938. In 1934, Wilson convinced Bucky Walters he would be a better pitcher than he was an infielder. Walters accepted Wilson's advice and became one of the leading pitchers in the National League.

Bill McKeechie recognized Wilson's ability to handle pitchers and signed him as coach for the Reds. McKeechie knows that pitchers are from 60 to 80 per cent of the success of any ball club.

The victory of the Reds over the Tigers in the World's Series was largely due to the splendid pitching of Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer.

Wilson admits he is ready to talk trade in his new job, but he isn't prepared to say what players may be let go. The Cubs possess considerable baseball talent, and Wilson is hopeful that he will be able to get the best results from it.

Horse Identity System Needed

THE NEED FOR a system of identifying every horse that races at American tracks was proved once more by the actions of the stewards at Agua Caliente. George W. Schilling, presiding steward, announced that Riley Hiser had been ruled off the turf for life for attempting to race an aged mare in a three-year-old race last Sunday.

According to Schilling, the horse was entered as Miss Rythm. Officials of the track discovered that the mare's markings did not agree with those submitted by the Jockey Club. The horse was not permitted to race. The track veterinarian later declared the horse was at least five years old.

During the Summer and Fall meetings at Rockingham Park, Wright and Layton employed a system to identify horses. They had the pictures of several thousand horses. For this system to be perfect, it would be necessary to have the picture of every horse once it starts racing.

Unless tracks keep a careful check on all horses entered, there are certain to be cases of "ringers." The temptation for a big betting cleanup is great for unscrupulous horsemen, and the tracks must take the necessary actions to prevent such happenings.

Alfred Vanderbilt, like Lou Smith, recognized the possibility of "ringers" being dropped into races, and has insisted upon all possible pictures of horses appearing at his tracks.

Pressure to Reinstate Davis Seen

AL DAVIS, who fouled himself to defeat in his recent bout with Fritz Davis, has been plastered with a record fine of $2500. The New York Athletic Commission was able to impose the penalty in view of the fact Davis' purse was held up following the rowdy match.

It is a legal question as to whether the New York Athletic Commission has the right to fine Davis. The Commission was within its powers when it suspended Davis' license which Bill Brown says will be "as long as I am on the Commission."

The court must yet act on the Commission's right to impose a fine on Davis.

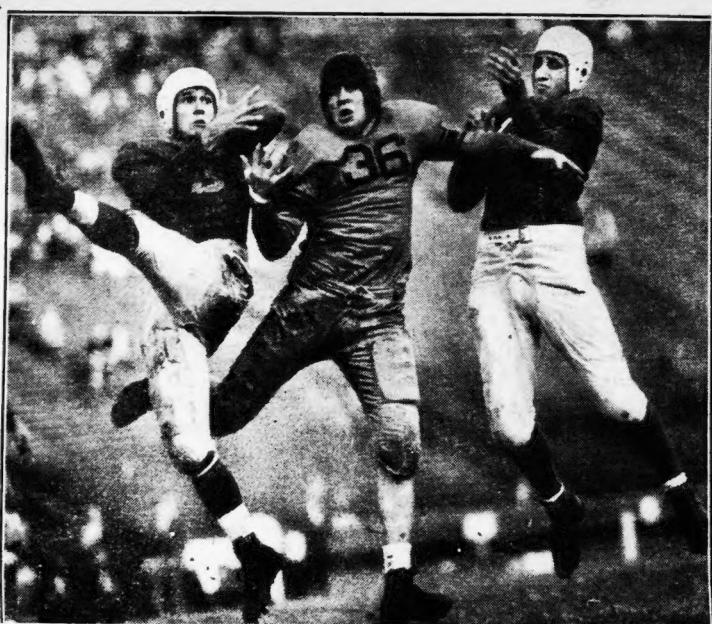

Davis has wisely refrained from making any statements since the disgraceful exhibition in which he fouled Zivic repeatedly.

Boxing has come a long ways from the days of bare knuckle fighting. Actions such as those that occurred in the Davis-Zivic bout do much to drag down the game and put it in ill repute everywhere.

Bill Brown is the strong man of the New York Athletic Commission and he may be relied upon to keep up the bars on Davis in New York State.

There will, of course, be tremendous political influence brought to have Davis placed back in good standing. Once the heat is off, you will find some of the most powerful political figures in New York trying to adjust Davis' affairs with the Commission.

James A. Farley once told me that he was under such pressure at the time he banned the first Dempsey-Tunney bout from New York that if he had experienced an honest change of opinion and shifted his vote that even his wife might well have suspected his motives.

THE TOUCH OF THE MASTER—Frankie Albert (left), Stanford All-American back grabs an Oregon State pass right out of the hands of Norm Peters (center), Oregon State end. But the effort went for naught when officials ruled Pete Metovic (right), guilty of interference and called the pass complete. It happened in the fourth quarter when the Beavers were threatening, but Stanford's Indians came back with a roar, and smashed their way to a 28-14 triumph in the Rose Bowl "decider."

Hidden Crimson Soph Speedster May Tear Yale Bulldog Apart

By BILL GRIMES

Until his Crimson charges hold their final practice session in the Yale Bowl Friday afternoon, Head Coach Dick Harlow will divide his time between polishing off the Harvard offense and defense and studying Trainer Jimmy Cox's reports on Loren MacKinney's physical condition.

MacKinney injured himself trying to complete a forward pass in the Brown game. He was on crutches for a few days but discarded his props and is now moving under his own power but with a noticeable effort.

So Coach Harlow is going under the assumption that MacKinney will not play against the Elis. He has been using Bill Barnes, a big and rangy sophomore, at MacKinney's end post and George Heiden has been the first string blocking back, since he recovered from his recent injury.

Barnes is a very good flankman. He proved that contention against Brown. Naturally, he lacks experience for this is his first season of varsity football. And Heiden is a better blocker, far surer and more effective, than MacKinney.

SPREYER TO KICK So, although the Crimson may lose what it considers its best kicker it will get in return a good end and a fine blocking back.

In the event that MacKinney doesn't get into the Yale game, George Spreyer will be assigned to do the kicking. And, there are worse punters on major college eleven than Mr. Spreyer. In fact, MacKinney has been criticized for kicking so low that it is impossible for his linemen to cover his punts. Spreyer isn't as long as MacKinney, but his kicks ride high and therefore are not so apt to allow Yale receivers to get flying starts after making completions.

STARTED A SOPH. There seems to be some question about Capt. Joe Gardella starting against Yale. The Harvard leader has been on the injured list and reports are to the effect that he'll not be ready for the Elis.

Two years ago, Joe Gardella was the only sophomore in the Harvard lineup at the opening kickoff of the Yale game. He was a regular again last season and honored with the captaincy. Unless Gardella is actually unfit for service, it will be an injustice not to start him on Saturday.

Bill Brown, another senior, who has never held down a regular berth on the first varsity has the call over Gardella at present.

Strictly unofficial rumors are to the effect that the varsity players believe that the team works smoother with Bill Brown at full-back than it does when their captain is handling the spinning and faking assignments.

There's no question but that Bill Brown has displayed considerable more poise this season than he ever showed in the past. He's seen quite a bit of action, while Capt. Gardella has been on the injured list, and he's a much improved player.

YALE'S WORST SEASON

But Harvard is under real pressure in every Yale game. It's far more difficult to be cool and collected in a game against the Elis than in any previous contest.

Despite the fact that Yale is winding up its poorest season in many years, from the standpoint of games won and lost, Harvard cannot take any unnecessary risks by not fielding its strongest combination.

Like the Sons of John Harvard, the Eli Yales always manage to put their best football forward against the Crimson. And Yale is represented by a better eleven than the records indicate.

If Harvard gets into a "tight" on Saturday, an unknown in the person of Gordie Lyle may crash the headlines. Lyle is a sophomore with an abundance of speed. He has been kept under glass all season, but should Fran Lee meet with an injury, there's a strong possibility that Lyle will see some action, and if he does, watch him carry the mail.

M'KECHNIE SIGNS JEWEL ENS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 20 (AP)—Manager Bill McKeechie has Jewel Ens, "the one fellow I want," as coach of the world champion Cincinnati Reds to replace the veteran Jimmy Wilson.

Ens surrendered his 1941 contract as manager of the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association to fill the vacancy on the Reds' staff left by Wilson's appointment as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

McKeechie told General Manager Warren C. Giles last week that he'd like to have Ens, "if you can get him." The skipper and new coach are close friends.

Ens, 31, was manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1930-31.

Yale Captain Lone Invalid for Harvard Game

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 20 (AP)—Most of Yale's "infirmity" squad donned uniforms as Coach Ducky Pond sent the Elis' gridgers through a lengthy drill in preparation for the traditional Harvard football battle here Saturday, but the Blue picture remained gloomy with the announcement that Captain Hal Whitman probably would have to remain on the sidelines.

Whitman's arm prevented him from joining in the workout which consisted mainly of bolstering the Yale attack.

Pond said that he was planning to start Chuck Willoughby, who was promoted to the varsity line over a week ago, in the backfield post in place of Whitman. Other "cripples," Quarterback Ray Anderson, troubled by a bad ankle, and Guard Jim Derr, who suffered a slight concussion, were pronounced ready for action.

LEONARD ENTERS 'ALL' BOUTS

Francis "Johnny" Leonard Taunton High School and last year's sensational winner of both the New England and East of All-America championships at 118 pounds today was the newest entrant in the 1940 New England All-America boxing championships. The Taunton boy, who now has outgrown that class, will appear as a featherweight in the third try-out tourney which gets under way at the Arena next Monday night. A stiff puncher and above all a crowd-pleaser, young Leonard is one of the most promising amateurs brought up in years.

STERN TEST FOR CHAMPS

To date the exhibitions turned in by scores of ambitious young leather tossers has been the most sensational ever witnessed in any tournament competition. The boys are very evenly matched as evidenced by the fact that only two of the 1939 All-America finalists—Tony Papp, Boston flyweight, and William Daley, Roxbury featherweight—have been able to make the qualifying round. The third elimination series will offer a card of bouts in 12 classes. Eight divisions for the open class performers at all championship weights will bring to Boston many of New England's leading simonpure biffers, while the novices will show their stuff in the 112, 126, 147 and 175 pounds classes.

NO POST ENTRIES

All entries must be made in writing and filed with Tom Kanaly at the Boston Arena before midnight on Saturday, Nov. 23. No post entries will be accepted at weighing-in time on Monday night, and all boxers planning to try for a place on the final card are urged to get their signed blanks in before the deadline.

The winners in all classes on Monday night, both open and novice, together with the winners in the first two tryouts as well as the victors in the final tryout to be held on Dec. 2 will clash at Boston Garden on Monday evening, Dec. 9 in the grand finals of the New England All-America championships, and the New England winners in the open classes only will be named to battle the All-America kings from New York, Albany, Buffalo and Baltimore at Boston Garden on Dec. 23 in the Eastern All-America championship finals.

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest, is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games to be played each Saturday. Any one may enter the contest excepting employees of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are filed on the short form which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space where the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a game shall be a tie, (T) in the space marked the names of the losing team.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except that for which you predict a tie. Write winning and losing average scores in space provided for purpose. Do not write individual scores in spaces or on the margin. Indicate average scores only in adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Winners of the contest will be selected by the Record-American office. Each entry will be acceptable and given equal consideration with those filed from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entry contains all selections correct. It more than one person submits perfect selection $100.00 will be awarded the team captain whose name appears on the entry. The prize will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct selections and should be or more contestants tie for this prize, tying contestants submitting the most correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $3.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in connection, the most correct number of correct selections and whose average scores most nearly match the actual scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Monday nine days after the game. The date of the contest in which they first appear.

All entries to the Record-American Football Contest (Daily P. O. Box 1897), Boston, Mass. In the event of a postponement of any of the games, such games will automatically be omitted from the contest. In the event that the planned date of any game (revised) is changed, then that game is automatically omitted.
